COUNTY COURT APPROVES TWO DAMAGE CASES

The Adams county court this morning approved terms of settlement in two damage actions that had been brought as a result of traffic mishaps on county highways.

In the case of Burnell Raubenstein, Hanover, against Harold D. Little, Hanover; Milton H. Manbeck, Ono, Pa., and Leonard Zinn, Hanover, Raubenstein was allowed damages totaling $626.05 including an allowance of $250 for pain and suffering.

The suit was an outgrowth of a collision at the York Springs intersection November 15, 1943, which resulted fatally for an occupant of one of the cars.

The other suit which was settled this morning was that in which Julia Jane O'Brien, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David I. O'Brien, New Oxford R. 1, asked damages totaling $377.75 from Leo A. Smith, Hanover. The child was injured about the face and mouth when she was struck by Smith's car on the Hanover-Cross Keys highway August 23, 1943.

Asks Viewers

Richard A. Brown, Esq., as attorney for John R. Funt, owner of a property in Cumberland township, presented a petition to the court this morning asking that a board of viewers be appointed to determine the extent of damages to his property along the Gettysburg-Littles-town highway by reason of the recent relocation of the road.

Another petition for a board of viewers was presented by council for the Highland township road supervisors. They ask that the viewers recommend that an unused section of highway in that township be formally vacated.

Judge W. C. Sheely presided with Associate Judges A. Dale Knouse and J. Price Oyler on the bench.

REPORT YOUTH INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Lawrence Ellis, 17, Concord, N. H., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Stallsmith, Lincolnway east, is a patient in the Warner hospital today suffering from contusions of the back and right knee.

The boy is reported to have been injured about midnight Friday as he stood on the Rock creek bridge at the east of town attempting to hitchhike a ride to the home of his grandparents about five miles east of here.

The vehicle that struck the youth apparently did not stop after the mishap and today was the object of a police search.

Borough Officer Paul B. Shearer investigated the accident. He was in York today and his report of the mishap was not available.

The license number of a truck-tractor and trailer was given police by persons at the scene and state police here forwarded the number to York by teletype. State police there stopped the truck in question but the driver said when he reached the scene of the accident, the boy was lying on the highway, two cars were parked nearby and a police officer already was at the scene. There were no marks on the truck and nothing to link it with the accident, police said.

Hospital Report

Wanda McCreaf, New Oxford; Earl Samuel Kugler, Jr., Emmitsburg; Joseph Fox, Gettysburg; Clair Beamer, Littlestown; Charles Lynn Vial, 12 South Washington street, and Phyllis Hahn, Emmitsburg, were operated upon this morning at the Warner hospital for the removal of their tonsils.

Mrs. Harold Culp, Chambersburg street, has been admitted as a patient. Those discharged were Mrs. Allen Sloat, Orrtanna; Mrs. Albert Kennedy and infant son, Albert William, Gettysburg R. 4; Mrs. Ralph Knox and infant son, John Vincent, Emmitsburg; Laverne Rittase, Taneytown; Mrs. Gladys Heiser, Gettysburg R. 2; Ann Wivell, Emmitsburg; Ralph Cullison, Cashtown; Darlene Baker, Gettysburg R. 1; Robert Lott, Jr., Aspers; Betty Jane O'Hill, Taneytown; Emily Rosalie Mulleaux, Taneytown and Mrs. Ivan Cassatt, Gettysburg R. 1.

Killed

Pfc. Ralph B. Gardner, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cajus Gardner, Gardners, died June 7 of wounds received in the invasion of Normandy on D-Day. Pfc. Gardner served with an Infantry regiment and went overseas in September, 1942. Prior to his induction in January, 1942, he was employed in Carlisle.

FREED FRENCH OFFER TO KILL NAZI HELPERS

By PETE CARROLL

Rennes, France, Aug. 4 (Delayed) (AP)—The 80,000 people of Rennes cheered the American entry into the city today and raged at French collaborationists.

Civilians offered to kill the collaborationists in the streets if they wanted to take pictures.

Tanks were rumbling through the city without stopping, but some jeeps and other vehicles stopped and French women and men hysterically threw flowers, kissed the doughboys and offered them wine.

I started to take some pictures but had to tear myself free from the people. Any car that stopped was swamped with humanity.

I met a young man about 20 years old and he offered to show us some French collaborationists. All the Germans had left.

We went down a side street toward a sort of jail and came across a man kneeling in the street with two gendarmes pointing pistols at his head and making him salute the French tricolor.

Force Allegiance

Down the street came another group dragging an Italian. They were beating him across the head and kicking him. Men taking him away were of the French resistance movement, but some in uniforms were Gendarmes.

They would beat him for a while, spit on him and drag him along by the hair. They made him kneel and shout, "Vive La France. Vive De Gaulle. Vive Churchill."

Then they dragged two more collaborationists from the jail. Some one hit one in the face, spreading his nose all over his face, and he started to cry.

The two were then kicked down stairs and lined up against a wall. The French announced they were going to shoot them and we should take pictures. Some of the French had rifles, others pistols.

When we tried to argue, saying the men should be tried first, the French just shouted, "We have been waiting four years for this—they are traitors."

Finally they quieted down and it looked like they would not shoot them at the moment anyway, and we had to leave.

WAC PROMOTED

Pvt. Minto S. Deardorff, daughter of Mrs. Frances E. Deardorff, Biglerville, R. 2, has been promoted to private first class at the Greenville, S. Carolina, Army Air Base, where she is a member of a WAC Squadron.

LEGION MEETING

The Albert J. Lentz Post, No. 202, the American Legion, will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the post home, Baltimore street. A district meeting will follow the regular session.

Susan Schwartz, seven, York R. 1, was treated Friday at the Warner hospital for a fracture of the right arm which she suffered in a fall. The child is the daughter of F. Joseph Schwartz, York R. 1.

MERCURY HITS SIZZLING TOP OF 99 DEGREES

There was no relief for Gettysburgians and Adams countians Friday evening from the sweltering heat of the day as the mercury refused to budge below the 73 mark during the dark hours of the evening. It was the highest registered reading of the thermometer for any night this year and the weather man gave no indication today that there was any relief in sight.

Dr. Henry Stewart's official weather recording thermometer on Friday soared to a record high for the year, the mercury touching the 99 plus mark. At the Arendsville station the same reading was announced.

As dusk settled over this area early Friday evening residents foreseeing no prospect of a let-up or relief, took to the mountains, creeks and other areas in search of some slight comfort.

Desert Bedrooms

The air was hot and humid throughout the night. Some residents took to their yards despite the "invasion" of the mosquitoes. Others set up temporary beds in their first floor rooms, deserting the comforts of springs and mattresses of their second floor bedrooms.

Many families took their children to nearby creeks early in the evening, consuming small amounts of their precious and rationed gasoline. "To give the kids a chance to get cool." However, many adults could be seen wading in the shallow waters of drought-affected streams.

The previous high mercury reading this season was on July 12 when Doctor Stewart's thermometer registered 96 while at Arendsville the reading was 97.

Last year the mercury hit 98 on three occasions, August 10 and 12 and again on September 1.

COUNTIANS TAKE NAVAL COURSE

Francis L. Weightman, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Weightman, Gettysburg R. 5, and Robert F. Groff, 33, husband of Mrs. Marie L. Groff, McSherrystown, have been in an intensive course at the Electrical Naval Training School located on the Purdue university campus, Lafayette, Indiana.

Selected for this special school on the basis of their recruit training aptitude test scores, the newly enrolled Bluejacket's course of study includes the use, function and maintenance of all electric tools used by the Navy. Electricity and the radio elements of electricity are also included in the course.

Successful completion of the course will see the Bluejacket graduate with the petty officer rate of Electrician's mate third class, or receive recognition as eligible to qualify for that advancement.

Property Transfers Are Announced Here

M. O. Rice, local representative for Ausherman brothers, real estate brokers, today announced the following property transfers involving Adams county residents:

Mr. and Mrs. Emory E. Sachs, Gettysburg, sold a residence in Waynesboro to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob R. Bitner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Koch, sold a local property to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Mumper, all of Gettysburg. Sarah Snyder, Gettysburg, sold a local property to L. D. Plank, of Table Rock.

Minnie Bair, Gettysburg, sold a local property to Sarah E. Brock, of Taneytown.

Mrs. Eddie M. Chapman, of Gettysburg, sold a residence at Onaida, N. Y., to Anna L. McCarthy.

Property Transfers

Bertha I. Ecker, Littlestown, and Ernest E. and Catherine W. Ecker, Baltimore, sold to Augustus A. and Cora M. Myers and William H. and Hilda M. Snyder, all of Myers District, Carroll county, Md., a property along the east side of South Queen street, Littlestown.

Charles W. and Ada L. Burgard sold to Harris T. Schlosser, all of East Berlin, a property on Abbotts-town street, East Berlin.

Chen-Yu mail polish, all the new shades, Berder's Cut Rate.

Lt. Col. Harry Knox Visits Home Here

Lt. Col. Harry Knox, who spent the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Knox, Carlisle road, has reported at Camp Stewart, Georgia.

Colonel Knox, who served with a convoy detachment, has made two trips overseas. On one trip to England he visited his brother, Capt. John J. Knox, serving with a medical squadron, and on a trip to the Mediterranean area he visited another brother, Ensign Fred V. Knox, who is stationed on a staff ship with an amphibian force. While in Naples the two brothers toured the region in a captured German car.

PEACHES ARE PLENTIFUL AT MARKET TODAY

Peach season hit its stride at the Farmers' market this morning where both yellow and white peaches were on sale in large quantities.

Prices on Golden Jubilee ranged downward from a top of $3 per bushel. Some stands offered half bushel baskets for $1, $1.25 and $1.50 each. By the single quart box they were 15 cents at most stands. Two-quart boxes were 29 and 30 cents each. Greensboro could be had at 25 cents a two-quart box and $1 a half bushel.

Tomatoes were plentiful also and brought 20 cents a quart box at most stands. By the half bushel basket, the price ranged from $1 to $1.25. Lima beans were 60 cents a quart box (shelled) and 35 cents a pint. Corn beans sold at 15 cents a box and 25 cents a quarter peck.

Few Huckleberries

Roastin' ears of good size and quality were on sale at 50 cents a dozen. In the later hours when much of the corn offered was of poorer size and quality, the price dropped to 45 cents at some stands. Squash were 10 and 15 cents each and cucumbers could be had in all sizes at one cent each and up. Red beets, onions, cauliflower and other staple vegetables could be had at unchanged prices.

Huckleberries which were offered first last week were on sale in limited quantities this morning at 50 cents a quart box. The dry weather has reduced the size of the berries and the crop this year is very light, marketmen said.

Summer Rambo apples of better size and color than those offered earlier were on sale at 52 per bushel. 20 cents a quarter peck and 35 cents a half peck. Bell pears were offered at 15 cents a quart box and another unnamed variety brought 10 cents a box, 20 cents a quarter peck and 35 cents a half peck. Transparent and Banana apples also were on the stands today at 15 cents a quart, 25 cents a quarter and 35 to 45 cents a half peck.

Egg prices ranged from 38 to 45 cents per dozen. The price of dressed fryers continued at 60 cents per pound.

RELIEF DECREASES

G. Harold Wagner, state treasurer, announced today the direct relief payments in Adams county for the week ending Friday totaled $342.49 which is $10.30 lower than the previous week. He also announced the unemployed compensation checks for the same period issued to Gettysburg amounted to $69.

Americans Occupy Suburbs Of Florence; Foe Retreats

By NORLAND NORGARD

Rome, Aug. 5 (AP)—Eight army troops have completed occupation of the suburbs of Florence south of the Arno river and bearing down along a 25-mile sector, are pressing the enemy back against the stream on both sides of the city. Allied headquarters said today.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's command announced that "although the enemy proclaimed that he regards Florence as an open city, he has seen fit to use it for his military traffic, and when outflung south of the city has blown up all the bridges except the historic Ponte Vecchio. His paratroops, however, are posted along the northern bank of the Arno within the city limits."

Here And There News Collected At Random

Here are two more bits of appreciation from our own Adams county soldiers, serving at opposite ends of the war zones for The Gettysburg Times they receive with our compliments.

F. Lee Earl W. Thomas, who receives his mail in care of the "Flee" post office, New York city, writes:

"I wish to thank you many, many times for sending me The Gettysburg Times. I enjoy it very much. I thoroughly enjoyed the Independence Day edition. It really shows us the men and women from Adams county in the service of the country, how our folks back home are backing us up in every way possible."

Then from Sergeant Ralph G. Taylor, in New Guinea, comes this interesting letter:

"I'm just another lonely boy here in New Guinea wishing I could be back to where those valuable newspapers are made. If you only knew how they are appreciated over here you would bring that printing shop over here and keep us informed in news. Everytime I receive a paper all the boys in my tent read it and enjoy reading it. I don't know how to thank you for my copies so I won't even try. All I know they are appreciated beyond words."

"We seem to have so much mail trouble over here. Just when it starts coming to us as it should then away we go and the mail stays behind. I didn't receive any for a month then all of a sudden I got 30 letters and so on for a few days after that. But I guess we can't yet realize this is war and mail over here is not as fast as in the States."

"When we got to our new destination the Japs were only a mile from us and being so close for the first time really gave everyone the chills. I don't think anyone can say they weren't uneasy the first few nights. We had to sleep in jungle hammocks for a few nights until we got the camp set up and one of the Japs' favorite tricks is to bayonet men when they are sleeping, tied to a tree. We all kept this in mind and if we got 10 winks those few nights it was by mere accident. I'm not afraid to admit I was really shaking in my shoes. We all slept in our clothes because if anything would happen we would be prepared."

"One of our best buddies over here is that rifle and it gets first choice in the bed and not without ammunition. I had all my clips full and wished I had more, because if I would have seen one he would have had more holes through him than one. Luckily we came through better than expected. There was some brave fighting done here and if some of the service club commandos would have been here they would really know for themselves the state of magnificence how it is done. I have a fox hole that looks like a miniature wall and believe me I'm not afraid to hit it. It seems funny our air raids over here are not like you are getting at (Please Turn to Page 2)

Boche Withdrawing In Odon-Orne Area; Brittany Is Falling

RED ARMY ON GERMAN SOIL; FIRES RAGING

By LEWIS HAWKINS

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Russians have carried the ground war to German soil for the first time since the conflict started by penetrating the northeastern part of East Prussia. Berlin reports indicated today, and Moscow dispatches said "fires are raging in East Prussian towns which now are objectives of Red Army Infantry attacks."

The German high command communicate said there was fighting in the "Sudauen-Schaken district." Sudauen is the old name for the eastern part of East Prussia between the rivers Inster and Angerapp and the Masurian lakes.

While the battle for Warsaw to the south raged inside and out of the old Polish capital, the Red Army swung strong cavalry forces across two water barriers in a smashing drive to within 30 miles of Krakow, the last big city stronghold of the Germans barring invasion of German Silesia.

Heavy Fighting
A transoceanic broadcast from Berlin said "heavy fighting is going on against Soviet formations which have broken through on the East Prussian border north of Wirballen (Virbalis)."

Virbalis is a frontier post about a mile from the East Prussian frontier. The village itself is two or three miles from the station on the main railway between Kaunas, former capital of Lithuania, and Konigsberg, largest city of East Prussia.

It is in this area that the Russians have been reported shelling East Prussia territory for several days.

Jail Sentence For Killing Boy

Charles H. Rothenhoeffer, 73, Aspers, was sentenced to serve two years in the Adams county jail, pay $500 to the parents of Billy McCauslin, 12-year-old Aspers boy whom Rothenhoeffer shot in mistake for a fish crane, July 19, and was ordered to forego hunting and fishing privileges for 10 years in court here this morning.

Judge Sheely, pointing out that the game law under which Rothenhoeffer was charged prescribed the minimum penalty, said the court "will be willing to receive a petition for parole long before the expiration of the sentence." Sheriff John E. Millhimes took the elderly man to jail immediately.

Before passing sentence the court heard two Aspers residents testify to the defendant's good reputation. Judge Sheely said: "The court is satisfied that you intended nothing wrong and that the shooting was purely accidental. The purpose of the law is to prevent others from making the same mistake."

Victim Of Polio "About The Same"

The condition of Norma Jean Hull, 7, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hull, New Oxford, was reported "about the same" this morning as she battles infantile paralysis which has partially paralyzed her left leg. Her general physical condition is good, according to her physician, Dr. Wilbur H. Miller, New Oxford. Her case is the only one reported so far in this county.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Culp, Chambersburg street, announce the birth of a daughter at the hospital this morning.

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—The American armored break out of the Normandy invasion beachhead has ripped the western front wide open, and Allied aerial observations indicate there is no coherent system of fixed German fortifications short of the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

But all those in a position to know emphasized that this does not mean the Germans cannot make another strong stand. The German army, schooled in the military theory of defense by counterattack, already has proven adept at a stand without fortifications, and the German infantryman has proved equally adept at digging in as a last resort—and being laboriously hard to dig out of his hole.

Have Half of Brittany

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 5 (AP)—American troops swarmed over half of the Breton peninsula today, thrusting nearly to the port of Nantes at its base and advancing to within 85 miles of Brest at its tip.

To the north in Normandy German troops were in a general withdrawal from the whole Odon-Orne valley southwest of Caen. The thrust by British and Canadian troops there was bringing closer a possible major German retreat to the Seine river 70 miles to the east and the opening of the way to Paris.

Giving up 50 square miles of territory in a five mile retreat, the Germans below the Canadian sector were declared in a front dispatch to be moving their forces back and forth in great confusion. A Canadian officer at the front said: "The enemy is now extremely windy. He is trying desperately to provide some kind of a bolt hole for himself. These are moves of desperation."

Advance on Eight Mile Front

After six days of battling, British troops knocked loose Villers-Bocage, the keystone of the German defenses west of the Orne river, and took at least 15 towns and villages.

Advancing on an eight mile front, the Tommies swarmed into evacuated Villers-Bocage and captured Noyers, Esquay, Evrecy and hills 112 and 113—all points the Germans had fought bitterly for weeks to hold.

The Supreme headquarters communique confirmed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's unslackening American tank-infantry force driving west on the Breton peninsula had reached Loudeac, 85 miles from the great port of Brest at the peninsula's end.

(The Germans told of a penetration to Pontivy, 10 miles farther.)

The American columns driving south of Rennes on two roughly parallel roads to Nantes reached Derval and Chateaubriant, 30 and 33 miles above Nantes respectively.

William McLaughlin Is At Keesler Field LOCAL SOLDIER ON FRENCH FRONT

Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 5 —Pvt. William Patrick McLaughlin, son of Lloyd McLaughlin, 239 Chambersburg street, Gettysburg, has reported to Keesler Field to take the Army Air Forces Training Command examinations to determine his qualifications as a pre-aviation cadet.

As an applicant for training that will make him a flying officer, he will be given a series of medical and psychological tests at Keesler Field which will indicate the type of air crew training for which he is best suited by aptitude and personal characteristics. He will also take other classification tests to measure his technical skills and aptitudes, and he will receive a number of phases of military training here. Upon successful completion of this processing, he will be sent to the proper Army Air Forces Training Command station to begin his training as pilot, bombardier or navigator, depending upon the position for which he has been found best qualified.

Announce Date Of Sergeant's Wounding

Mrs. Margaret C. Knox has received official word from the War department that her husband Sergeant Milford A. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Knox, Battlefield hotel, was wounded in action on July 16. News of Sergeant's Knox's injury was previously received in a letter from the soldier.

On July 15, 1917, just twenty-seven years to the day, Sergeant Knox's uncle, Michael Tate, West Middle street, was wounded in France in the first World war.

PEACHES ARE PLENTIFUL AT MARKET TODAY

Peach season hit its stride at the Farmers' market this morning where both yellow and white peaches were on sale in large quantities.

Prices on Golden Jubilee ranged downward from a top of $3 per bushel. Some stands offered half bushel baskets for $1, $1.25 and $1.50 each. By the single quart box they were 15 cents at most stands. Two-quart boxes were 20 and 30 cents each. Greensboro could be had at 25 cents a two-quart box and $1 a half bushel.

Tomatoes were plentiful also and brought 20 cents a quart box at most stands. By the half bushel basket, the price ranged from $1 to $1.25. Lima beans were 60 cents a quart box (shelled) and 35 cents a pint. Corn beans sold at 15 cents a box and 25 cents a quarter peck.

Few Huckleberries

Roastin' ears of good size and quality were on sale at 50 cents a dozen. In the later hours when much of the corn offered was of poorer size and quality, the price dropped to 45 cents at some stands. Squash were 10 and 15 cents each and cucumbers could be had in all sizes at one cent each and up. Red beets, onions, cauliflower and other staple vegetables could be had at unchanged prices.

Huckleberries which were offered first last week were on sale in limited quantities this morning at 50 cents a quart box. The dry weather has reduced the size of the berries and the crop this year is very light, marketmen said.

Summer Rambo apples of better size and color than those offered earlier were on sale at $2 per bushel, 20 cents a quarter peck and 35 cents a half peck. Bell pears were offered at 15 cents a quart box and another unnamed variety brought 10 cents a box, 20 cents a quarter peck and 35 cents a half peck. Transparent and Banana apples also were on the stands today at 15 cents a quart, 25 cents a quarter and 35 to 45 cents a half peck.

Egg prices ranged from 38 to 46 cents per dozen. The price of dressed fryers continued at 60 cents per pound.

RELIEF DECREASES

G. Harold Wagner, state treasurer, announced today the direct relief payments in Adams county for the week ending Friday totaled $343.40 which is $10.30 lower than the previous week. He also announced the unemployed compensation checks for the same period issued to Gettysburg amounted to $60.

Americans Occupy Suburbs Of Florence; Foo Retreats

By NORLAND NORGAARD

Rome, Aug. 5 (AP)—Eight army troops have completed occupation of the suburbs of Florence south of the Arno river and, bearing down along a 25-mile sector, are pressing the enemy back against the stream on both sides of the city. Allied headquarters said today.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's command announced that "although the enemy proclaimed that he regards Florence as an open city, he has seen fit to use it for his military traffic, and when outflung south of the city has blown up all the bridges except the historic Ponte Vecchio. His paratroops, however, are posted along the northern bank of the Arno within the city limits."

All along the south side of the Arno, British, Indian, New Zealand and South African forces crushed the Nazis back and threatened to cut the weakening defenders into small formations.

Two and a half miles east of Florence, a British division punched through Borgo a Ripoli to within 1,000 yards of the Arno's banks, while the enemy still held high ground to the east.

American Marauders and Mitchells carried the burden of yesterday's air attacks, with steady hammering of enemy communications in northern Italy and southeastern France. Thunderbolts made attacks in the Riviera area of the Italo-French frontier. American heavy bombers were idle yesterday.

Here are two more bits of appreciation from our own Adams county soldiers, serving at opposite ends of the war zones. For the Gettysburg Times they receive with our compliments.

F. L. Earl W. Thomas, who receives his mail in care of the Fleet post office, New York city, writes:

"I wish to thank you many, many times for sending me The Gettysburg Times. I enjoy it very much. I thoroughly enjoyed the Independence Day edition. It really shows us, the men and women from Adams county in the service of the country, how our folks back home are backing us up in every way possible."

Then from Sergeant Ralph G. Taylor, in New Guinea, comes this interesting letter:

"I'm just another lonely boy here in New Guinea wishing I could be back to where those valuable newspapers are made. If you only knew how they are appreciated over here you would bring that printing shop over here and keep us informed in news. Everytime I receive a paper all the boys in my tent read it and enjoy reading it. I don't know how to thank you for my copies so I won't even try. All I know they are appreciated beyond words."

"We seem to have so much mail trouble over here. Just when it starts coming to us as it should then away we go and the mail stays behind. I didn't receive any for a month then all of a sudden I got 30 letters and so on for a few days after that. But I guess we can't yet realize this is war and mail over here is not as fast as in the States."

"When we got to our new destination the Japs were only a mile from us and being so close for the first time really gave everyone the chills. I don't think anyone can say they weren't uneasy the first few nights. We had to sleep in jungle hammocks for a few nights until we got the camp set up and one of the Japs' favorite tricks is to bayonet men when they are sleeping, tied to a tree. We all kept this in mind and if we got 10 winks those few nights it was by mere accident. I'm not afraid to admit I was really shaking in my shoes. We all slept in our clothes because if anything would happen we would be prepared."

"One of our best buddies over here is that rifle and it gets first choice in the bed and not without ammunition. I had all my clips full and wished I had more, because if I would have seen one he would have had more holes through him than one. Luckily we came through better than expected. There was some brave fighting done here and if some of the service club commandos would really know for themselves instead of imagining how it is done. I have a fox hole that looks like a miniature well and believe me I'm not afraid to hit it. It seems funny our air raids over here are not like you are getting at (Please Turn to Page 2)

RED ARMY ON GERMAN SOIL; FIRES RAGING

By LEWIS HAWKINS

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Russians have carried the ground war to German soil for the first time since the conflict started by penetrating the northeastern part of East Prussia. Berlin reports indicated today, and Moscow dispatches said "fires are raging in East Prussian towns which now are objectives of Red Army Infantry attacks."

The German high command communique said there was fighting in the "Sudauen-Schaken district." Sudauen is the old name for the eastern part of East Prussia between the rivers Inster and Angerapp and the Masurian lakes.

While the battle for Warsaw to the south raged inside and out of the old Polish capital, the Red Army flung strong cavalry forces across two water barriers in a smashing drive to within 30 miles of Krakow, the last big city stronghold of the Germans barring invasion of German Silesia.

A transoceanic broadcast from Berlin said "heavy fighting is going on against Soviet formations which have broken through on the East Prussian border north of Wirballen (Virbals)."

Virbals is a frontier post about a mile from the East Prussian frontier. The village itself is two or three miles from the station on the main railway between Kaunas, former capital of Lithuania, and Konigsberg, largest city of East Prussia.

It is in this area that the Russians have been reported shelling East Prussia territory for several days.

Jail Sentence For Killing Boy

Charles H. Rothenhoeffer, 73, Aspers, was sentenced to serve two years in the Adams county jail, pay $500 to the parents of Billy McCauslin, 12-year-old Aspers boy whom Rothenhoeffer shot in mistake for a fish crane. July 19, and was ordered to forego hunting and fishing privileges for 10 years in court here this morning.

Judge Sheely, pointing out that the game law under which Rothenhoeffer was charged prescribed the minimum penalty, said the court "will be willing to receive a petition for parole long before the expiration of the sentence." Sheriff John E. Millhimes took the elderly man to jail immediately.

Before passing sentence the court heard two Aspers residents testify to the defendant's good reputation. Judge Sheely said: "The court is satisfied that you intended nothing wrong and that the shooting was purely accidental. The purpose of the law is to prevent others from making the same mistake."

Victim Of Polio "About The Same"

The condition of Norma Jean Hull, 7, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hull, New Oxford, was reported "about the same" this morning as she battles infantile paralysis which has partially paralyzed her left leg. Her general physical condition is good, according to her physician, Dr. Wilbur H. Miller, New Oxford. Her case is the only one reported so far in this county.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Culp, Chambersburg street, announce the birth of a daughter at the hospital this morning.

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—The American armored break out of the Normandy invasion beachhead has ripped the western front wide open, and Allied aerial observations indicate there is no coherent system of fixed German fortifications short of the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

But all those in a position to know emphasized that this does not mean the Germans cannot make another strong stand. The German army, schooled in the military theory of defense by counterattack, already has proven adept at a stand without fortifications, and the German infantryman has proved equally adept at digging in as a last resort—and being laboriously hard to dig out of his hole.

Have Half Of Brittany

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 5 (AP)—American troops swarmed over half of the Breton peninsula today, thrusting nearly to the port of Nantes at its base and advancing to within 85 miles of Brest at its tip.

To the north in Normandy German troops were in a general withdrawal from the whole Odon-Orne valley southwest of Caen. The thrust by British and Canadian troops there was bringing closer a possible major German retreat to the Seine river 70 miles to the east and the opening of the way to Paris.

Giving up 50 square miles of territory in a five mile retreat, the Germans below the Canadian sector were declared in a front dispatch to be moving their forces back and forth in great confusion. A Canadian officer at the front said: "The enemy is now extremely windy. He is trying desperately to provide some kind of a bolt hole for himself. These are moves of desperation."

Advance on Eight Mile Front

After six days of battling, British troops knocked loose Villers-Bocage, the keystone of the German defenses west of the Orne river, and took at least 15 towns and villages. Advancing on an eight mile front, the Tommies swarmed into evacuated Villers-Bocage and captured Noyers, Esquay, Evrecy and hills 112 and 113—all points the Germans had fought bitterly for weeks to hold.

The Supreme headquarters communicate confirmed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's unslackening American tank-infantry force driving west on the Breton peninsula had reached Loudeac, 85 miles from the great port of Brest at the peninsula's end.

(The Germans told of a penetration to Pontivy, 10 miles farther.)

The American columns driving south of Rennes on two roughly parallel roads to Nantes reached Derval and Chateaubriant, 30 and 33 miles above Nantes respectively.

William McGlaughlin Is At Keesler Field

Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 5 —Pvt. William Patrick McGlaughlin, son of Lloyd McGlaughlin, 239 Chambersburg street, Gettysburg, has reported to Keesler Field to take the Army Air Forces Training Command examinations to determine his qualifications as a pre-aviation cadet.

As an applicant for training that will make him a flying officer, he will be given a series of medical and psychological tests at Keesler Field which will indicate the type of air crew training for which he is best suited by aptitude and personal characteristics. He will also take other classification tests to measure his technical skills and aptitudes, and he will receive a number of phases of military training here. Upon successful completion of this processing, he will be sent to the proper Army Air Forces Training Command station to begin his training as pilot, bombardier or navigator, depending upon the position for which he has been found best qualified.

Announce Date Of Sergeant's Wounding

Mrs. Margaret C. Knox has received official word from the War department that her husband Sergeant Milford A. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Knox, Battlefield hotel, was wounded in action on July 16. News of Sergeant's Knox's injury was previously received in a letter from the soldier.

On July 16, 1917, just twenty-seven years to the day, Sergeant Knox's uncle, Michael Tate, West Middle street, was wounded in France in the first World war.

LOCAL SOLDIER ON FRENCH FRONT

Word has been received by Mrs. Charles C. Riley that her husband, Cpl. Charles C. Riley, took part in the Cherbourg peninsula campaign. Corporal Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Riley, East Middle street, is a member of an ordnance company and was formerly a member of Co. E of the National Guard of Gettysburg.

An official letter of commendation to his outfit reads as follows:

"The officers and men of your unit are to be commended highly for their outstanding performance of duty in the Cherbourg peninsula campaign. During the first four days of the campaign when the tactical situation was ever in doubt and when the tide of battle depended so heavily upon Ordnance for firing power and tank replacement and maintenance, your unit, as Ordnance's lone representative and despite the handicap of personnel losses, arose magnificently to meet the emergency by giving Ordnance support to the four divisions and corps troops in this sector, besides operating a corps collection point."

"The leadership of your officers, the morale and mechanical ingenuity of your men during this initial phase of the campaign was an invaluable and important factor in the ultimate success of the American Forces."

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heintzelman, Gettysburg R. 2, quietly observed their 27th wedding anniversary Friday. Friday also marked the birthday anniversary of Mr. Heintzelman.

COUNTY COURT APPROVES TWO DAMAGE CASES

The Adams county court this morning approved terms of settlement in two damage actions that had been brought as a result of traffic mishaps on county highways.

In the case of Burnell Raubenstine, Hanover, against Harold D. Little, Hanover; Milton H. Manbeck, Ono, Pa., and Leonard Zinn, Hanover, Raubenstine was allowed damages totaling $626.05 including an allowance of $250 for pain and suffering.

The suit was an outgrowth of a collision at the York Springs intersection November 15, 1943, which resulted fatally for an occupant of one of the cars.

The other suit which was settled this morning was that in which Julia Jane O'Brien, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David I. O'Brien, New Oxford R. 1, asked damages totaling $377.75 from Leo A. Smith, Hanover. The child was injured about the face and mouth when she was struck by Smith's car on the Hanover-Cross Keys highway August 23, 1943.

Asks Viewers

Richard A. Brown, Esq., as attorney for John R. Funt, owner of a property in Cumberland township, presented a petition to the court this morning asking that a board of viewers be appointed to determine the extent of damages to his property along the Gettysburg-Littlestown highway by reason of the recent relocation of the road.

Another petition for a board of viewers was presented by council for the Highland township road supervisors. They ask that the viewers recommend that an unused section of highway in that township be formally vacated.

Judge W. C. Sheely presided with Associate Judges A. Dale Knouse and J. Price Oyler on the bench.

Lawrence Rits, 17, Concord, N. H., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Stallsmith, Lincolnway east, is a patient in the Warner hospital today suffering from contusions of the back and right knee.

The boy is reported to have been injured about midnight Friday as he stood on the Rock creek bridge at the east of town attempting to hitchhike a ride to the home of his grandparents about five miles east of here.

The vehicle that struck the youth apparently did not stop after the mishap and today was the object of a police search.

Borough Officer Paul B. Shearer investigated the accident. He was in York today and his report of the mishap was not available.

The license number of a truck-tractor and trailer was given police by persons at the scene and state police here forwarded the number to York by teletype. State police there stopped the truck in question but the driver said when he reached the scene of the accident, the boy was lying on the highway, two cars were parked nearby and a police officer already was at the scene. There were no marks on the truck and nothing to link it with the accident, police said.

Hospital Report

Wanda McClellan, New Oxford; Earl Samuel Kugler, Jr., Emmitsburg; Joseph Fox, Gettysburg; Clair Beamer, Littlestown; Charles Lynn Vial, 12 South Washington street, and Phyllis Hahn, Emmitsburg, were operated upon this morning at the Warner hospital for the removal of their tonsils.

Mrs. Harold Culp, Chambersburg street, has been admitted as a patient. Those discharged were Mrs. Allen Sloot, Orttanna; Mrs. Albert Kennedy and infant son, Albert William, Gettysburg R. 4; Mrs. Ralph Knox and infant son, John Vincent, Emmitsburg; Laverne Ritts, Taneytown; Mrs. Gladys Heiser, Gettysburg R. 2; Ann Wivell, Emmitsburg; Ralph Cullison, Cashtown; Darlene Baker, Gettysburg R. 1; Robert Lott, Jr., Aspers; Betty Jane Omler, Taneytown; Emily Rosalie Mulineux, Taneytown and Mrs. Ivan Cassatt, Gettysburg R. 1.

Killed

Pfc. Ralph B. Gardner, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cajus Gardner, Gardners, died June 7 of wounds received in the invasion of Normandy on D-Day. Pfc. Gardner served with an Infantry regiment and went overseas in September, 1942. Prior to his induction in January, 1942, he was employed in Carlisle.

FREED FRENCH OFFER TO KILL NAZI HELPERS

By PETE CARROLL

Rennes, France, Aug. 4 (Delayed) (AP)—The 80,000 people of Rennes cheered the American entry into the city today and raged at French collaborationists.

Civilians offered to kill the collaborationists in the streets if they wanted to take pictures.

Tanks were rumbling through the city without stopping, but some jeeps and other vehicles stopped and French women and men hysterically threw flowers, kissed the doughboys and offered them wine.

I started to take some pictures but had to tear myself free from the people. Any car that stopped was swamped with humanity.

I met a young man about 20 years old and he offered to show us some French collaborationists. All the Germans had left.

We went down a side street toward a sort of jail and came across a man kneeling in the street with two gendarmes pointing pistols at his head and making him salute the French tricolor.

Force Allegiance

Down the street came another group dragging an Italian. They were beating him across the head and kicking him. Men taking him away were of the French resistance movement, but some in uniforms were Gendarmes.

They would beat him for a while, spit on him and drag him along by the hair. They made him kneel and shout, "Vive La France, Vive De Gaulle, Vive Churchill."

Then they dragged two more collaborationists from the jail. Some one hit one in the face, spreading his nose all over his face, and he started to cry.

The two were then kicked down stairs and lined up against a wall. The French announced they were going to shoot them and we should take pictures. Some of the French had rifles, others pistols.

When we tried to argue, saying the men should be tried first, the French just shouted, "We have been waiting four years for this—they are traitors."

Finally they quieted down and it looked like they would not shoot them at the moment anyway, and we had to leave.

WAC PROMOTED

Susan Schwartz, seven, York R. 1, was treated Friday at the Warner hospital for a fracture of the right arm which she suffered in a fall. The child is the daughter of F. Joseph Schwartz, York R. 1.

MERCURY HITS SIZZLING TOP OF 99 DEGREES

There was no relief for Gettysburgians and Adams countians Friday evening from the sweltering heat of the day as the mercury refused to budge below the 73 mark during the dark hours of the evening. It was the highest registered reading of the thermometer for any night this year and the weather man gave no indication today that there was any relief in sight.

Dr. Henry Stewart's official weather recording thermometer on Friday soared to a record high for the year, the mercury touching the 99 plus mark. At the Arendtsville station the same reading was announced.

As dusk settled over this area early Friday evening residents foreseeing no prospects of a let-up or relief, took to the mountains, creeks and other areas in search of some slight comfort.

Desert Bedrooms

The air was hot and humid throughout the night. Some residents took to their yards despite the "invasion" of the mosquitos. Others set up temporary beds in their first floor rooms, deserting the comforts of springs and mattresses of their second floor bedrooms.

Many families took their children to nearby creeks early in the evening, consuming small amounts of their precious and rationed gasoline, "to give the kids a chance to get cool." However, many adults could be seen wading in the shallow waters of drought-affected streams.

The previous high mercury reading this season was on July 12 when Doctor Stewart's thermometer registered 96 while at Arendtsville the reading was 97.

Last year the mercury hit 98 on three occasions, August 10 and 12 and again on September 1.

COUNTIANS TAKE NAVAL COURSE

Francis L. Weightman, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Weightman, Gettysburg R. 5, and Robert F. Groft, 33, husband of Mrs. Marie L. Groft, McSherrytown have been in an intensive course at the Electrical Naval Training School located on the Purdue university campus, Lafayette, Indiana.

Selected for this special school on the basis of their recruit training aptitude test scores, the newly enrolled Bluejacket's course of study includes the use, function and maintenance of all electric tools used by the Navy. Electricity and the radio elements of electricity are also included in the course.

Successful completion of the course will see the Bluejacket graduate with the petty officer rate of Electrician's mate third class, or receive recognition as eligible to qualify for that advancement.

Charles H. Rothenhoeffer, 73, Aspers, was sentenced to serve two years in the Adams county jail, pay $500 to the parents of Billy McCauslin, 12-year-old Aspers boy whom Rothenhoeffer shot in mistake for a fish crane, July 19, and was ordered to forego hunting and fishing privileges for 10 years in court here this morning.

Judge Sheely, pointing out that the game law under which Rothenhoeffer was charged prescribed the minimum penalty, said the court "will be willing to receive a petition for parole long before the expiration of the sentence." Sheriff John E. Millhimes took the elderly man to jail immediately.

Before passing sentence the court heard two Aspers residents testify to the defendant's good reputation. Judge Sheely said: "The court is satisfied that you intended nothing wrong and that the shooting was purely accidental. The purpose of the law is to prevent others from making the same mistake."

Victim Of Polio "About The Same"

The condition of Norma Jean Hull, 7, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hull, New Oxford, was reported "about the same" this morning as she battles infantile paralysis which has partially paralyzed her left leg. Her general physical condition is good, according to her physician, Dr. Wilbur H. Miller, New Oxford. Her case is the only one reported so far in this county.

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—The American armored break out of the Normandy invasion beachhead has ripped the western front wide open, and Allied aerial observations indicate there is no coherent system of fixed German fortifications short of the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

But all those in a position to know emphasized that this does not mean the Germans cannot make another strong stand. The German army, schooled in the military theory of defense by counterattack, already has proven adept at a stand without fortifications, and the German infantryman has proved equally adept at digging in as a last resort—and being laboriously hard to dig out of his hole.

Have Half Of Brittany

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 5 (AP)—American troops swarmed over half of the Breton peninsula today, thrusting nearly to the port of Nantes at its base and advancing to within 85 miles of Brest at its tip.

To the north in Normandy German troops were in a general withdrawal from the whole Odon-Orne valley southwest of Caen. The thrust by British and Canadian troops there was bringing closer a possible major German retreat to the Seine river 70 miles to the east and the opening of the way to Paris.

Giving up 50 square miles of territory in a five mile retreat, the Germans below the Canadian sector were declared in a front dispatch to be moving their forces back and forth in great confusion. A Canadian officer at the front said: "The enemy is now extremely windy. He is trying desperately to provide some kind of a bolt hole for himself. These are moves of desperation."

Advance on Eight Mile Front

After six days of battling, British troops knocked loose Villers-Bocage, the keystone of the German defenses west of the Orne river, and took at least 15 towns and villages. Advancing on an eight mile front, the Tommies swarmed into evacuated Villers-Bocage and captured Noyers, Esquay, Evreux and hills 112 and 113—all points the Germans had fought bitterly for weeks to hold.

The Supreme headquarters communique confirmed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's unslackening American tank-infantry force driving west on the Breton peninsula had reached Loudeac, 85 miles from the great port of Brest at the peninsula's end.

(The Germans told of a penetration to Pontivy, 10 miles farther.)

The American columns driving south of Rennes on two roughly parallel roads to Nantes reached Derval and Chateaubriant, 30 and 33 miles above Nantes respectively.

William McGlaughlin Is At Keesler Field

Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 5 —Pvt. William Patrick McGlaughlin, son of Lloyd McGlaughlin, 239 Chambersburg street, Gettysburg, has reported to Keesler Field to take the Army Air Forces Training Command examinations to determine his qualifications as a pre-aviation cadet.

As an applicant for training that will make him a flying officer, he will be given a series of medical and psychological tests at Keesler Field which will indicate the type of air crew training for which he is best suited by aptitude and personal characteristics. He will also take other classification tests to measure his technical skills and aptitudes, and he will receive a number of phases of military training here. Upon successful completion of this processing, he will be sent to the proper Army Air Forces Training Command station to begin his training as pilot, bombardier or navigator, depending upon the position for which he has been found best qualified.

Announce Date Of Sergeant's Wounding

Mrs. Margaret C. Knox has received official word from the War department that her husband, Sergeant Milford A. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Knox, Battlefield hotel, was wounded in action on July 16. News of Sergeant's Knox's injury was previously received in a letter from the soldier.

On July 16, 1917, just twenty-seven years to the day, Sergeant Knox's uncle, Michael Tate, West Middle street, was wounded in France in the first World war.

LOCAL SOLDIER ON FRENCH FRONT

Word has been received by Mrs. Charles C. Riley that her husband, Cpl. Charles C. Riley, took part in the Cherbourg peninsula campaign. Corporal Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Riley, East Middle street, is a member of an ordnance company and was formerly a member of Co. E of the National Guard of Gettysburg.

An official letter of commendation to his outfit reads as follows: "The officers and men of your unit are to be commended highly for their outstanding performance of duty in the Cherbourg peninsula campaign. During the first four days of the campaign when the tactical situation was ever in doubt, and when the tide of battle depended so heavily upon Ordnance for firing power and tank replacement and maintenance, your unit, as Ordnance's lone representative and despite the handicap of personnel losses, arose magnificently to meet the emergency by giving Ordnance support to the four divisions and corps troops in this sector, besides operating a corps collection point.

"The leadership of your officers, the morale and mechanical ingenuity of your men during this initial phase of the campaign was an invaluable and important factor in the ultimate success of the American Forces."

WITHDRAWAL OF GERMANS WILL BLOCK ROBOTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
Hitler's robot bomb, which is pouring so much death and destruction into London, presents a major problem whose solution seems to depend on the speed with which the western Allies are able to develop their drive towards Paris and Berlin.

There are two apparent ways in which this devilish weapon can be eliminated. One is to destroy the launching platforms—and intensive bombing thus far has failed to turn this trick. The other is to compel the Germans to retreat from the Pas de Calais coast opposite England so far that they will be outside the effective radius of the robot, which is about 150 miles.

May Fall Back
That brings us back to the swiftly developing battle of France. When the Allies start to sweep east and northeast from Normandy, they will flank the Nazi coastal forces that are operating the flying bombs. This will be calculated to cause the Hitlerites to withdraw. Indeed it won't be surprising to see the Germans heading for their inner defenses behind the Maginot and Siegfried lines before long, the way their fighting machine is cracking up.

Elimination of the robot bomb thus becomes one of the prime reasons for speed in the Allied offensive—a speed likely to accelerate rapidly now that we have broken out of the Normandy peninsula. This fresh bombardment of civilian London can't be brushed aside lightly with the truism that "the British can take it." Certainly the British can take it, and the Hitlerites can't help their cause by such tactics. Actually Hitler's new weapon is only making it certain that he and his gang will pay after the war. However, it would be foolish not to recognize the terrible strain which England is enduring.

Million Evacuated
About a million people, largely women and children, have been evacuated from the capital already. Prime Minister Churchill told us Wednesday that these bombs had killed 4,735 folk and more or less seriously injured 14,000 more. About 17,000 houses have been totally destroyed and some 800,000 damaged.

It must be remembered that London presents the biggest target of its kind in the world for these uncontrolled explosives. One doesn't like to contemplate the effect on this great city is the deluge continues.

Of course, by the time this robot is eliminated the Nazis may be ready to unleash another secret weapon even more terrible. Bigger bombs are said to be in preparation. However, while monster bombs can be built all right, their launching presents technical difficulties which tax the ingenuity of the world's best scientific brains. The hope is that the Nazis won't have time to perfect a new weapon before they have to yell quits.

BROTHERS ARE KILLED
Tonawanda, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)—Two War Department telegrams informed Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Niland this week that two of their four sons were killed in France one day apart, on June 6 and 7, and a third son has been reported missing since June 6. Their fourth son, Sgt. Frederick Niland, a paratrooper, who has been in France since D-Day has written home.

Allied Planes Hit Plants In Germany

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—More than 1,100 Liberators and Flying Fortresses thundered into Germany today, attacking numerous targets in Döbergen, Hannover and Brunswick, and striking at German oil refineries and aircraft industry.

Another great day of Allied aerial assault in excellent weather appeared in progress against Hitler's Europe.

Yesterday Italy-based Lightnings of the U. S. 15th Air Force, escorted by Mustangs, shot up communications in Romania and landed on Soviet bases, an eastern U. S. Air Force announcement broadcast by Moscow said.

Weather was good for the attack on Germany, the U. S. Strategic Air Forces said, and bombing was visual. The oil refinery at Döbergen, an oil storage plant at Nienburg, an aircraft factory at Magdeburg, and aircraft at Hannover, Langerhagen and Halberstadt were hit. Other targets in the Hannover and Magdeburg areas were unidentified.

Stockholm, Aug. 5 (AP)—A general strike has begun in Helsinki, Denmark, as a protest to the slaying by German occupying forces of Otto Bulow, Danish globe trotter and artist, a report from Copenhagen said today. ALLIES SEIZE MORE AREA IN SWIFT BATTLE

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Headquarters in Burma, Aug. 5 (AP)—In a swift follow up to the capture of Myittha after a three month siege, Chinese troops have crossed the Irrawaddy river and taken two-thirds of Waingmaw, while Kachin levies east of the river thrust into the Maingna area, headquarters announced tonight.

Waingmaw is about two and one-half miles southeast of Myittha, which was a major Japanese base in north Burma, and Maingna about the same distance northeast.

These troops were under the command of Brig. Gen. T. F. Wessels, replacing Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill, leader of the Marauders, who has been withdrawn for a restful assignment.

Chinese Help
Headquarters disclosed that elements of the Chinese 14th, 30th, and 50th divisions with American combat engineers participated in the final push which took Myittha, opening the way for the construction of the Ledo road toward China to reestablish an overland route. The Allies already are opening the section of the Mandalay railway between Myittha and Mogaung, to the west.

KILLED DURING SAIPAN ACTION

Pfc. Sylvester Hockensmith, son of Cletus A. Hockensmith, was killed July 4 on Saipan island according to information received by his father from the War Department Thursday.

The McSherrystown soldier, member of an infantry outfit, entered the service on January 9, 1943, and trained at Fort McClellan, Ala. He was transferred to Hawaii and was later sent to the South Pacific war theatre. He was employed by the Jackson Shoe company, Hanover, before entering the service and had not visited his home after induction.

Private Hockensmith was a son of Cletus A. and the late Mary Strausbaugh, Hockensmith.

Surviving besides his father are the following brothers and sisters: Miss Genevieve Hockensmith, Harrisburg; Sister Mary Sanis, Dallas, Pa.; Sgt. Marcellus Hockensmith, U. S. "I've seen 30 Japs that were killed before I got there and believe me they are pouring lead the same as we are. We have them beat in every way in equipment but they are still fighting. We had one that gave himself up because of starvation and said they like to fight but can't stand Yanks' big guns. That is the way I like to hear them talk and before long I'm afraid they are going to find out trying to conquer the world was one of the most unsuccessful things they ever tried.

"We boys over here usually write things contrary to what people at home think, but it only takes 10 to 12 thousand miles to find out for yourselves. That is just a small trip by plane.

"We haven't seen any women for at least four months. Never had ice cream, Coca Cola, or a good steak meal. No hard roads, in fact the roads are usually beach roads. No place to spend any money so what good is it.

"We haven't any good clothing any more—it is all work clothing. We've gotten rid of all unnecessary things that use to be musts back in the States. I remember how we used to have the clothing checks back there but when you get over here the story is changed from A to Z. That dry run outfit they use on soldiers in the states is ended when you hit a place like this. I've sent quite a bit of Japanese money home that I'll have to remember what was Japan. They have money made for every place they planned on invading. Some of them think they are fighting in the heart of the U. S., so you can see how their leaders lead them."

Supreme Headquarters Advanced Command Post, Aug. 5 (AP)—Maj. Gen. A. W. Kenner, chief of the Medical Corps in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command, said today that Allied casualties of the invasion of France to date had been 30 per cent under the anticipated figure. There has been an extremely low rate of mortality among the wounded, he added.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Headquarters in Burma, Aug. 5 (AP)—In a swift follow up to the capture of Myitkina after a three month siege, Chinese troops have crossed the Irrawaddy river and taken two-thirds of Waingmaw, while Kachin levies east of the river thrust into the Maigna area, headquarters announced tonight.

Waingmaw is about two and one-half miles southeast of Myitkina, which was a major Japanese base in north Burma, and Maigna about the same distance northeast.

These troops were under the command of Brig. Gen. T. F. Wessels, replacing Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill, leader of the Marauders, who has been withdrawn for a restful assignment.

Chinese Help
Headquarters disclosed that elements of the Chinese 14th, 20th, and 50th divisions with American combat engineers participated in the final push which took Myitkina, opening the way for the construction of the Ledo road toward China. The Allies already are opening the section of the Mandalay railway between Myitkina and Mogaung, to the west.

BUY U. S. WAR BONDS and HELP SPEED VICTORY

GERMANS WILL BLOCK ROBOTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
Hitler's robot bomb, which is pouring so much death and destruction into London, presents a major problem whose solution seems to depend on the speed with which the western Allies are able to develop their drive towards Paris and Berlin.

There are two apparent ways in which this devilish weapon can be eliminated. One is to destroy the launching platforms—and intensive bombing thus far has failed to turn this trick. The other is to compel the Germans to retreat from the Pas de Calais coast, opposite England so far that they will be outside the effective radius of the robot, which is about 150 miles.

May Fall Back
That brings us back to the swiftly developing battle of France. When the Allies start to sweep east and northeast from Normandy, they will flank the Nazi coastal forces that are operating the uying bombs. This will be calculated to cause the Hitlerites to withdraw. Indeed it won't be surprising to see the Germans heading for their inner defenses behind the Maginot and Siegfried lines before long, the way their fighting machine is cracking up.

Elimination of the robot bomb thus becomes one of the prime reasons for speed in the Allied offensive—a speed likely to accelerate rapidly now that we have broken out of the Normandy peninsula. This fresh bombardment of civilian London can't be brushed aside lightly with the truism that "the British can take it."

Certainly the British can take it, and the Hitlerites can't help their cause by such tactics. Actually Hitler's new weapon is only making it certain that he and his gang will pay after the war. However, it would be foolish not to recognize the terrible strain which England is enduring.

Million Evacuated

About a million people, largely women and children, have been evacuated from the capital already. Prime Minister Churchill told us Wednesday that these bombs had killed 4,735 folk and more or less seriously injured 14,000 more. About 17,000 houses have been totally destroyed and some 800,000 damaged.

It must be remembered that London presents the biggest target of its kind in the world for these uncontrolled explosives. One doesn't like to contemplate the effect on this great city is the deluge continues.

Of course, by the time this robot is eliminated the Nazis may be ready to unleash another secret weapon even more terrible. Bigger bombs are said to be in preparation. However, while monster bombs can be built all right, their launching presents technical difficulties which tax the ingenuity of the world's best scientific brains. The hope is that the Nazis won't have time to perfect a new weapon before they have to yell quits.

Allied Planes Hit
Plants In Germany

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—More than 1,100 Liberators and Flying Fortresses thundered into Germany today, attacking numerous targets in Dollbergen, Hannover and Brunswick, and striking at German oil refineries and aircraft industry.

Another great day of Allied aerial assault in excellent weather appeared in progress against Hitler's Europe.

Yesterday Italy-based Lightnings of the U. S. 15th Air Force, escorted by Mustangs, shot up communications in Romania and landed on Soviet bases, an eastern U. S. Air Force announcement broadcast by Moscow said.

Weather was good for the attack on Germany, the U. S. Strategic Air Forces said, and bombing was visual.

The oil refinery at Dollbergen, an oil storage plant at Nienburg, an aircraft factory at Madeburg, and airfields at Hannover, Lanperhangen and Halberstadt were hit. Other targets in the Hannover and Madeburg areas were unidentified.

Stockholm, Aug. 5 (AP)—A general strike has begun in Helsinki, Denmark, as a protest to the slaying by German occupying forces of Otto Bulow, Danish globe trotter and artist, a report from Copenhagen said today. home. These are the real McCoy.

"I've seen 10 Japs that were killed before I got there and believe me they are pouring lead the same as we are. We have them beat in every way in equipment but they are still fighting. We had one that gave himself up because of starvation and said they like to fight but can't stand Yanks' big guns. That is the way I like to hear them talk and before long I'm afraid they are going to find out trying to conquer the world was one of the most unsuccessful things they ever tried.

"We boys over here usually write things contrary to what people at home think, but it only takes 10 to 12 thousand miles to find out for yourselves. That is just a small trip by plane.

"We haven't seen any women for at least four months. Never had ice cream, Coca Cola, or a good steak meal. No hard roads, in fact the roads are usually beach roads. No place to spend any money so what good is it.

"We haven't any good clothing any more—it is all work clothing. We've gotten rid of all unnecessary things that use to be musts back in the States. I remember how we use to have the clothing checks back there but when you get over here the story is changed from A to Z. That dry run outfit they use on soldiers in the states is ended when you hit a place like this. I've sent quite a bit of Japanese money home that I'll have to remember what was Japan. They have money made for every place they planned on invading. Some of them think they are fighting in the heart of the U. S., so you can see how their leaders lead them."

Supreme Headquarters Advanced Command Post, Aug. 5 (AP)—Maj. Gen. A. W. Kenner, chief of the Medical Corps in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command, said today that Allied casualties of the invasion of France to date had been 30 per cent under the anticipated figure. There has been an extremely low rate of mortality among the wounded, he added.

STRIKERS MAY BE NABBED IN TRANSIT STRIKE

Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)—A showdown with possible arrests appeared imminent today between the government and striking street car, bus and subway operators who refused to heed an Army appeal to end a five-day transit tie-up marked by racial violence and a slash in war production.

The Army disclosed that its next step in the dispute, stemming from white worker's opposition to the up-grading of negro transit employees, would be in cooperation with the Department of Justice.

In Washington, James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, said today that persons who obstructed a return to work since the Army took over the Philadelphia Transportation Company were "very likely to be arrested and soon."

Leaders Confer
Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, War department representative in charge of the company, conferred here for two hours last night with Department of Justice and Federal Bureau of Investigation officials.

"The entire situation was gone over so that there would be complete cooperation between the Army and the Department of Justice in handling this matter," Hayes said.

His session with the law officers came after James McMenamin, a strikers' committee man, notified the city's 6,000 transit operators that the strike committee had voted unanimously to continue the "status quo" or work stoppage.

"Be back here at noon tomorrow (Saturday) and we will have more news for you," McMenamin told strikers assembled at a car barn.

Officials of the CIO United Transport Workers union, which represents the transit workers, have opposed the strike.

Partial street car and subway-elevated service was restored yesterday, the first under Army control, but it collapsed last night when relief operators failed to appear for those who had operated some vehicles during the day.

31 Trains Operate
At the 5 p. m. rush hour only 31 subway-elevated trains and one street car were in operation. This compared with normal service provided by 77 trains, 1,529 street cars and 462 buses.

Army and Navy officials estimated that absenteeism resulting from the tie-up had caused a loss of almost 500,000 man-hours in war production up to today.

Bars and liquor stores remained closed throughout the city as a precaution against renewed outbreaks of racial violence.

The strike in the early stages of the walkout, resulting in two shootings, the hospitalization of at least 14 persons, the smashing of 300 windows and the arrest of about 300 persons, has dwindled since the Army assumed control on the transit system.

SECOND TRANSIT STRIKE FLARES IN MINNEAPOLIS

(By The Associated Press)
The number idle in this country and Canada dropped to about 36,000 from the 39,000 total yesterday. In four cases involving 8,300 the men returned or voted to return to work. Prospects improved for prompt settlement of the Montreal, Que., tram strike and Detroit's only major stoppage.

A new transport tangle developed in Minneapolis where more than 1,000 over-the-road drivers walked out in renewal of a long-standing wage dispute with the midwest operators association.

New Stoppages

Also on the darker side were new stoppages at three Illinois war plants, involving 2,900; two new walkouts in the Pittsburgh district, bringing the total of idle there to some 2,700, and a pulp and paper mill tieup of 500 at West Point, Va.

On the labor peace front: 100 workers of the Reading, Pa., Street Railway company, agreed to return to work today to end a one-day stoppage that cut transport service 25 per cent; 5,700 strikers at John A. Roebling's Sons and company, Roebbling and Trenton, N. J., voted and started to return to work in compliance with a War Labor Board directive; 800 distribution employees of Public Service Gas and Electric company, Newark, N. J., and 11 other cities voted to return today, and a stoppage of 2,000 at Houdaille-Hershey corporation, Buffalo, N. Y., was ended.

A CIO-United Auto Workers of America, Nestor B. Nessey, predicted that 7,000 employees of General Motors' Chevrolet gear and axle division, Detroit, would vote Sunday to return to work and end a week long strike.

In all, two dozen disputes existed across the country.

DEWEY HAPPY WITH HARMONY IN GOP PARTY

En Route East With Dewey, Aug. 5 (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Thomas E. Dewey traveled homeward on his first campaign trip today, confident that the political melody composed and played by a St. Louis symphony of GOP governors would linger on until the November election.

Apparently unfatigued by six days of conferences that sometimes extended over 16 continuous hours, the New York governor made rear-platform appearances at Mattoon, Ill., and Terre Haute, Ind., to shake hands with the enthusiastic and curious who gathered to see his Pawling, N. Y.-bound train go through.

Dewey told a news conference at St. Louis yesterday he was "exceedingly happy at the news of satisfactory military progress" and confident the Republican ticket would win in November "regardless of the war news."

Bickering Over
Reporting on the Missouri meeting to what he said was his role as "leader of the party," Dewey announced that the controversies between the states and the federal government "have been settled as a matter of national policy by our party and to the complete satisfaction of the governors representing three-fourths of the people." He said he doubted that Democratic governors could disagree with the 14-point findings of the conference.

"I can say without hesitation that the quarreling and bickering in the last 12 years between national and state governments will come to an end with the election of a Republican administration," the GOP nominee said.

JAPS' RETREAT OPENS 700 MILE COAST TO YANKS

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 5 (AP)—The full retreat of Japan's Second army promised today to deliver a 700-mile sweep of Dutch New Guinea coastline to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces without further bitter fighting.

The general reported that thousands of outflanked Japanese were abandoning all their strongpoints along the broad Geelvink Bay and in upper Vogelkop peninsula, an area comprising nearly a third of New Guinea.

The Japanese, commanded by Gen. Fushitaro Teshima, apparently hoped to reach the west coast for evacuation. But the hazards of terrain and Allied land, sea and aerial assaults will mean the Japanese "losses at best cannot fail to be calamitous," MacArthur reported.

Quit Key Bases
Teshima's army was charged with defending Dutch New Guinea, but its practical effectiveness "is rapidly approaching an end," today's communique said.

The sea and air base at Manokwari, on the northern end of Geelvink Bay, and the air center at Nabire, some 200 miles southeast, were among "key points" the Japanese were abandoning. They also were believed to be withdrawing from Moemi and Waren, flank air bases south of Manokwari.

Officers have estimated that at least 15,000 Japanese were in the Manokwari area, but there was no indication how many more thousands the retreat would affect.

Allied losses continued to be "negligible" in Dutch New Guinea, a headquarters spokesman said. No sizeable enemy forces have challenged the Americans at Sansapor, on the northwestern tip of New Guinea, which was captured Sunday.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)—A showdown with possible arrests appeared imminent today between the government and striking street car, bus and subway operators who refused to heed an Army appeal to end a five-day transit tie-up marked by racial violence and a slash in war production.

The Army disclosed that its next step in the dispute, stemming from white worker's opposition to the upgrading of negro transit employees, would be in cooperation with the Department of Justice.

In Washington, James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, said flatly that persons who obstructed a return to work since the Army took over the Philadelphia Transportation company were "very likely to be arrested—and soon."

Leaders Confer

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, War department representative in charge of the company, conferred here for two hours last night with Department of Justice and Federal Bureau of Investigation officials.

"The entire situation was gone over so that there would be complete cooperation between the Army and the Department of Justice in handling this matter," Hayes said.

His session with the law officers came after James McMenamin, a strikers' committee man, notified the city's 6,000 transit operators that the strike committee had voted unanimously to continue the "status quo"—or work stoppage.

"Be back here at noon tomorrow (Saturday) and we will have more news for you," McMenamin told strikers assembled at a car barn.

Officials of the CIO United Transport Workers union, which represents the transit workers, have opposed the strike.

Partial street car and subway-elevated service was restored yesterday, the first under Army control, but it collapsed last night when relief operators failed to appear for those who had operated some vehicles during the day.

31 Trains Operate

At the 5 p. m. rush hour only 31 subway-elevated trains and one street car were in operation. This compared with normal service provided by 77 trains, 1,529 street cars and 462 buses.

Army and Navy officials estimated that absenteeism resulting from the tie-up had caused a loss of almost 500,000 man-hours in war production up to today.

Bars and liquor stores remained closed throughout the city as a precaution against renewed outbreaks of racial violence.

The strife in the early stages of the walkout, resulting in two shootings, the hospitalization of at least 14 persons, the smashing of 300 windows and the arrest of about 300 persons, has dwindled since the Army assumed control on the transit system.

DEWEY HAPPY WITH HARMONY IN GOP PARTY

En Route East With Dewey, Aug. 5 (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Thomas E. Dewey traveled homeward on his first campaign trip today, confident that the political melody composed and played by a St. Louis symphony of GOP governors would linger on until the November election.

Apparently unfatigued by six days of conferences that sometimes extended over 16 continuous hours, the New York governor made rear-platform appearances at Mattoon, Ill., and Terre Haute, Ind., to shake hands with the enthusiastic and curious who gathered to see his Pawling, N. Y.-bound train go through.

Dewey told a news conference at St. Louis yesterday he was "exceedingly happy at the news of satisfactory military progress" and confident the Republican ticket would win in November "regardless of the war news."

Bickering Over

Reporting on the Missouri meeting in what he said was his role as "leader of the party," Dewey announced that the controversies between the states and the federal government "have been settled as a matter of national policy by our party and to the complete satisfaction of the governors representing three-fourths of the people." He said he doubted that Democratic governors could disagree with the 14-point findings of the conference.

"I can say without hesitation that the quarreling and bickering in the last 12 years between national and state governments will come to an end with the election of a Republican administration," the GOP nominee said.

JAPS' RETREAT OPENS 700 MILE COAST TO YANKS

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 5 (AP)—The full retreat of Japan's Second army promised today to deliver a 700-mile sweep of Dutch New Guinea coastline to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces without further bitter fighting.

The general reported that thousands of outflanked Japanese were abandoning all their strongpoints along the broad Geelvink Bay and in upper Vogelkop peninsula, an area comprising nearly a third of New Guinea.

The Japanese, commanded by Gen. Fusatara Teshima, apparently hoped to reach the west coast for evacuation. But the hazards of terrain and Allied land, sea and aerial assaults will mean the Japanese "losses at best cannot fail to be calamitous," MacArthur reported.

Quit Key Bases

Teshima's army was charged with defending Dutch New Guinea, but its practical effectiveness "is rapidly approaching an end," today's communique said.

The sea and air base at Manokwari, on the northern end of Geelvink Bay, and the air center at Nabire, some 200 miles southeast, were among key points the Japanese were abandoning. They also were believed to be withdrawing from Moemi and Warren, flank air bases south of Manokwari.

Officers have estimated that at least 15,000 Japanese were in the Manokwari area, but there was no indication how many more thousands the retreat would affect.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)—A showdown with possible arrests appeared imminent today between the government and striking street car, bus and subway operators who refused to heed an Army appeal to end a five-day transit tie-up marked by racial violence and a slash in war production.

The Army disclosed that its next step in the dispute, stemming from white worker's opposition to the upgrading of negro transit employees, would be in cooperation with the Department of Justice.

In Washington, James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, said flatly that persons who obstructed a return to work since the Army took over the Philadelphia Transportation company were "very likely to be arrested—and soon."

Leaders Confer

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, War department representative in charge of the company, conferred here for two hours last night with Department of Justice and Federal Bureau of Investigation officials.

"The entire situation was gone over so that there would be complete cooperation between the Army and the Department of Justice in handling this matter," Hayes said.

His session with the law officers came after James McMenamin, a strikers' committee man, notified the city's 6,000 transit operators that the strike committee had voted unanimously to continue the "status quo"—or work stoppage.

"Be back here at noon tomorrow (Saturday) and we will have more news for you," McMenamin told strikers assembled at a car barn.

Officials of the CIO United Transport Workers union, which represents the transit workers, have opposed the strike.

Partial street car and subway-elevated service was restored yesterday, the first under Army control, but it collapsed last night when relief operators failed to appear for those who had operated some vehicles during the day.

31 Trains Operate

At the 5 p. m. rush hour only 31 subway-elevated trains and one street car were in operation. This compared with normal service provided by 77 trains, 1,529 street cars and 462 buses.

Army and Navy officials estimated that absenteeism resulting from the tie-up had caused a loss of almost 500,000 man-hours in war production up to today.

Bars and liquor stores remained closed throughout the city as a precaution against renewed outbreaks of racial violence.

The strife in the early stages of the walkout, resulting in two shootings, the hospitalization of at least 14 persons, the smashing of 300 windows and the arrest of about 300 persons, has dwindled since the Army assumed control on the transit system.

SECOND TRANSIT STRIKE FLARES IN MINNEAPOLIS

(By The Associated Press)
The number idle in this country and Canada dropped to about 36,000 from the 39,000 total yesterday. In four cases involving 8,600 the men returned or voted to return to work. Prospects improved for prompt settlement of the Montreal, Que., tram strike and Detroit's only major stoppage.

A new transport tangle developed in Minneapolis where more than 1,000 over-the-road drivers walked out in renewal of a long-standing wage dispute with the midwest operators association.

New Stoppages

Also on the darker side were new stoppages at three Illinois war plants, involving 2,900; two new walkouts in the Pittsburgh district, bringing the total of idle there to some 2,700, and a pulp and paper mill tieup of 500 at West Point, Va.

On the labor peace front: 100 workers of the Reading, Pa., Street Railway company, agreed to return to work today to end a one-day stoppage that cut transport service 25 per cent; 5,700 strikers at John A. Roebling's Sons and company, Roebbling and Trenton, N. J., voted and started to return to work in compliance with a War Labor Board directive; 800 distribution employees of Public Service Gas and Electric company, Newark, N. J., and 11 other cities voted to return today, and a stoppage of 2,000 at Houdaille-Hershey corporation, Buffalo, N. Y., was ended.

A CIO-United Auto Workers official, Nestor B. Nessy, predicted that 7,000 employees of General Motors' Chevrolet gear and axle division, Detroit, would vote Sunday to return to work and end a week long strike.

In all, two dozen disputes existed across the country.

The sea and air base at Manokwari, on the northern end of Geelvink Bay, and the air center at Nabire, some 200 miles southeast, were among key points the Japanese were abandoning. They also were believed to be withdrawing from Moemi and Waren, flank air bases south of Manokwari.

Officers have estimated that at least 15,000 Japanese were in the Manokwari area, but there was no indication how many more thousands the retreat would affect.

Allied losses continued to be "negligible" in Dutch New Guinea, a headquarters spokesman said. No sizeable enemy forces have challenged the Americans at Sansapor, on the northwestern tip of New Guinea, which was captured Sunday.

New Flying Force For Marshal Tito

Balkan Air Force Headquarters in the Mediterranean, July 15 (Delayed) (AP)—A new Allied air force has been formed for the express purpose of supporting Marshal Tito's Yugoslav partisans and other resistance elements in the Balkans, and has begun operations from bases in Yugoslavia, Italy and Africa.

(This dispatch apparently was delayed by censorship until today for security reasons.)

Although made up mostly of British and American units, the new Balkan air force also includes Italian, Polish and Greek squadrons. Yugoslav airmen will be brought in later.

The commanding officer is RAF Air Vice Marshal William Elliott, former air officer commanding at Gibraltar.

in the Altipte area of British New Guinea, several hundred miles east of Geelvink Bay, where the Americans repulsed four suicidal attacks Wednesday. The doughboys were probing Japanese pockets near the Drinimur river line, 17 miles east of Altipte.

American losses were "extremely light" during Wednesday's 11-hour fight which cost the Japanese several hundred men.

Allied aircraft attacked Yap island, in the western Carolines, among other objectives Thursday and, for the first time in a midday foray, encountered neither aerial interceptors nor anti-aircraft fire.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)—Dale Mathewson, right handed pitcher, has been optioned to the Louisville club of the American association by the Philadelphia Phillies.

Solitude to some is a mild torture, but to others it is a boon and a joy. It is in solitude that we get best acquainted with ourselves, and become most inspired by the wonders and mysteries of Nature.
It is in solitude that the library of the mind comes in for its greatest usefulness. Wherever you may be in solitude, there you can take from your mind some valuable volume—of you have previously built a library. Many there are who never store a single volume in their mind, so that they are the ones who are among the most miserable when solitude is offered them.
All the nature writers have built up libraries from all that they have seen and learned in nature. To such, solitude has always been a blessing. Knowledge is perched everywhere. You merely have to jot it down, and make it your own. This library of the mind in which is stored all the man's accumulation of ideas and experiences over the years, is about the only indestructible thing we own. So long as we live, it lives.
You can be far from all human habitation, with not a scrap of reading matter around, and yet be in a position to entertain yourself from the many books and information long stored in that library of your mind. Memory has preserved for us the choicest selections from all our experiences.
Most of us know next to nothing of the simplest things that face us from day to day. A slice of grass, a count on a flower, a leaf from the commonest of trees, the score that we are off by, and from our daily way—what is the significance of these? The naturalist or scientist, however, could write a volume about any of the things that are in our relationship to the rest of the world.
What a world it is to be forced with a companion from a home made volume after volume can be drawn and expounded in simple language to the profit of any one who has the opportunity as to the value of a companion, and how it is that we are so fortunate as to have such a companion, and how it is that we are so fortunate as to have such a companion. How important is the value of a companion.

PICKS WRONG GIRL
New York (AP)—When a man goes to marry, he is often a fool. He picks the wrong girl. This is a mistake that many men make. They pick a girl who is not what they need. They pick a girl who is not what they want. They pick a girl who is not what they deserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Clara Pepple and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Little are visiting the World's fair in Chicago.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

Another thing that will help you avoid old age is your car's accelerator pedal.
Test on the Spot
Taking the wheel of a friend's car the other day I noticed that the brakes lacked equalization. It surprised the owner to realize that even hydraulics can get out of equalization, but I proved to him that this was surely a fact in his case. It was just a matter of making a steady stop from road speed and then quickly getting out and feeling the brake drums. One of them wasn't anywhere near as hot as the others. That was the up-oo.

Storehouse for Gums
We are frequently told that lengthy storage of gasoline results in collection of certain harmful gums, but it seldom occurs to us that in these days of rationing many motorists are carrying around gasoline that is quite stale. The only way to meet this problem is to use gum solvents. Strangely enough these are best used in with the crankcase oil rather than with the gasoline. Reason is that the gums in the gasoline do most of their damage by working down around the valve stems and the piston rings and that solvents in with the oil reach these spots more effectively by the crankcase route. The main trouble with using solvents in the gasoline is that in the tank they stir up deposits that have harmlessly settled at the bottom of the tank. No use encouraging these to go on through to the engine.

Keep Them in Mind
If the engine overheats and water rises to the overflow level in the radiator when the engine is accelerated you have no fear that the pump isn't working properly. Either the radiator is clogged or the lower hose sucks inward when the engine is "gunned."

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"It's about time we took seriously the need for giving cars a brake tune-up. This business of waiting until something goes wrong with the car's stopping equipment is both dangerous and wasteful. Too much is at stake to warrant taking the risk of not giving the braking system a thorough going over."
"I would start with inspecting the drums and brake shoes. Chances are the drums will need washing with gasoline. Then there should be a careful search for evidences of leakage in the hydraulic lines and around the master and wheel cylinders. This will call for removal of a lot of dirt and gums, a good thing in itself. Finally I would drain the whole system and flush it with one of the prepared solutions for this purpose. After refilling with new fluid I would bleed any remaining air from the lines. All mechanical parts of the individual brakes should be cleaned and lubricated. I'd pull out the master cylinder to make sure its wall isn't corroded or scored. Finally, I would reassemble the shoes and drums and polish off the job with careful testing and some minor adjustments."

Try It Some Time
I won't guarantee that this will work on your car but some time if year seat passengers are complaining of too much air when you are rolling along in fair weather with the windows open try opening the cowl ventilator wide. This immediately sets up a counter draft which is effective in checking excessive "blow" inside the car. We were experimenting with this the other day and found that each time the driver closed the cowl ventilator there was so much air circulation in the car as to be uncomfortable. Open the ventilator and it seemed as if one of the windows had been closed.

They'll All Stall
Judging from my mail one of the pet worries of the motoring fraternity is engine stalling, but oddly enough the worry is about one's own engine and seldom about the other fellow's. As a result there has developed a type of collision due entirely to failure to assume, and to make preparations for the possibility, that the other fellow may not be able to proceed and get out of the way because of sudden under-the-hood lapse. Someone comes out of a driveway with what probably is a cold engine. He drives across your path, but you calmly figure that you need not slow down because by the time you reach the point of possible collision he'll be safely out of the way. But what if the engine of his car stalls?

For Your Guidance
Doing a motor job? If so, perhaps you'll be wondering if the pistons should be replaced with their slots facing the left or right, front or back. There is a simple rule about this. Just stand in front of the car, facing the motor. The pistons should be arranged so that their slots face the right hand side. They face the direction of the motor's thrust.
With few exceptions it does not pay to speed up on the theory that subsequently you can save gas by getting a longer coast. The only time coasting pays is when you sense that the car's momentum is sufficient to keep it running without benefit of engine power.

A wrecked muffler is the usual penalty for the habit of switching off the ignition to "save" gas when going down easy grades. Unburned gas accumulates in the muffler and is apt to explode there when ignition is switched on again.
Tip on Clutch
Lack of alignment between engine and transmission accounts for several conditions that are indicated to an observing driver by certain noises, but there can be serious strain of the clutch plate without any of such telltale sounds. Better check, therefore, to see that alignment is correct if the car has seen considerable service, for if the clutch plate has to act like a universal joint the chances are that it will break off at its hub.

Attention, Please!
If you're not certain the driver of the car immediately behind is paying attention to conditions just remember to press up and down on the brake pedal, a few times so that the stop-light signals go into action. He won't notice this at first but if you keep it up he'll tumble to the fact that something's cooking. When you have gained his attention then you can give him the signal for a full stop or turn or whatever it is you are about to do. He'll be ready for it by that time.

B. F. Goodrich all-synthetic Silvertowns

IF ANYONE still has doubts about tires built with man-made rubber, here's clear-cut performance proof: by the most conservative estimate, essential drivers have already rolled over 3 billion miles on B. F. Goodrich all-synthetic Silvertowns.

Letters have come in from drivers all over the country reporting complete satisfaction. Most of them have expressed confidence that all-synthetic Silvertowns will give at least as much mileage as pre-war tires.

The 80,000,000-mile road test was the first proof that B. F. Goodrich could build high-performance tires with synthetic rubber. The test started almost two years before Pearl Harbor when B. F. Goodrich sold tires in which more than half the rubber was synthetic. They were the first

The naturalist or scientist, however, could write a volume about any of these things and of their relationship to the rest of the world.

What a thrill it is to be favored with a companion from whose mind volume after volume can be drawn and expounded in simple language, to the profit of any of us who may be so fortunate as to have such a companion. And such knowledge and pleasure remain as permanent assets. How important it is to have accumulated a library of the mind!

TEN YEARS AGO
Hitler Ready to Take Post of Hindenburg (Copyright by the Associated Press) Berlin, Aug. 1.—Adolf Hitler intends to be both president and chancellor of Germany, one of his close friends told the Associated Press today.

This would give Hitler a dictatorship as absolute as any in the world.

Hitler flew to Neudeck with his staff this morning to be at von Hindenburg's bedside after ordering the cabinet back from vacation for a session tonight.

New Dentist to Practice Here: Dr. A. P. Resh, of Philadelphia, formerly of Chambersburg, opened an office for the practice of dentistry in the Murphy building, over the Peoples drug store on Thursday.

Buys Local Business: Mervin E. Tipton, East Middle street, has purchased the Maust brothers' cleaning and pressing establishment, center square. Mr. Tipton will also conduct a shoe repairing shop.

Mrs. W. L. Oyler Is 75 on Friday: Mrs. Wesley I. Oyler, East Middle street, observed her 75th birthday anniversary on Friday and was the recipient of many messages of congratulations from her family and friends.

Friday evening members of Mrs. Oyler's family tendered her a surprise party at the home of her son, James Oyler, and wife, Baltimore pike.

Oscar Shaws Observe Anniversary: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shaw observed their twenty-first wedding anniversary at their summer home "El Sueno," along the Biglerville road, on Sunday.

Two Elks Lodges Sponsor Picnic: More than 100 Elks, members of Hanover and Gettysburg lodges, attended a joint picnic Sunday at Brown's dam, near Hampton. A baseball game between the two lodges resulted in a victory for the Gettysburg Elks by the score of 2-0. Hanover lodge of Elks sponsored the organization of the Gettysburg lodge in 1906.

24 Boys on Tour: The twenty-four Arendtsville Vocational boys, on a truck tour through the northern part of the country, under the supervision of Edwin A. Rice, head of the department of agriculture at Arendtsville, are having a "fine time" according to a letter received Sunday from Professor Rice.

Adams P.O.S. of A. Names Dr. Elgin New President: Dr. Eugene Elgin, of Camp 159, Patriotic Order Sons of America, East Berlin, was elected president of the county association at the annual convention at Bendersville Saturday. Doctor Elgin succeeds H. F. Phillips, of York Springs.

Gervus W. Myers, of Camp 414, Gettysburg, was re-elected secretary for the twelfth time, and C. E. Stallsmith, of the same camp, was re-elected treasurer for his fifth term.

Other officers elected included: George D. Sheely, New Oxford, vice president; Robert Stover, Littlestown, guard; E. R. Sentz, Littlestown, and Gervus W. Myers, Gettysburg, were re-elected district presidents of the first and second districts, respectively.

Rotarians Guests of C.C.C.: The Gettysburg Rotary club will be guests of Captain Francis J. Moran, commander of C.C.C. camp No. 1, on the battlefield at their regular weekly dinner meeting. Members of camp No. 1 will present a program.

Another thing that will help you avoid old age is your car's accelerator pedal.

Test on the Spot

Taking the wheel of a friend's car the other day I noticed that the brakes lacked equalization. It surprised the owner to realize that even hydraulics can get out of equalization, but I proved to him that this was surely a fact in his case. It was just a matter of making a steady stop from road speed and then quickly getting out and feeling the brake drums. One of them wasn't anywhere near as hot as the others. That was the tip-off.

Storehouse for Gums

We are frequently told that lengthy storage of gasoline results in collection of certain harmful gums, but it seldom occurs to us that in these days of rationing many motorists are carrying around gasoline that is quite stale. The only way to meet this problem is to use gum solvents. Strangely enough these are best used in with the crankcase oil rather than with the gasoline. Reason is that the gums in the gasoline do most of their damage by working down around the valve stems and the piston rings and that solvents in with the oil reach these spots more effectively by the crankcase route. The main trouble with using solvents in the gasoline is that in the tank they stir up deposits that have harmlessly settled at the bottom of the tank. No use encouraging these to go on through to the engine.

Keep Them in Mind

If the engine overheats and water rises to the overflow level in the radiator when the engine is accelerated you have no fear that the pump isn't working properly. Either the radiator is clogged or the lower hose sucks inward when the engine is "gunned."

Just because you see gasoline in the fuel filter bowl don't assume that refusal of the engine to run means you can't possibly be out of gas. Fuel enters and leaves the filter at the top, and the whole system can be bone dry with the bowl still filled.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"It's about time we took seriously the need for giving cars a brake tune-up. This business of waiting until something goes wrong with the car's stopping equipment is both dangerous and wasteful. Too much is at stake to warrant taking the risk of not giving the braking system a thorough going over."

"I would start with inspecting the drums and brake shoes. Chances are the drums will need washing with gasoline. Then there should be a careful search for evidences of leakage in the hydraulic lines and around the master and wheel cylinders. This will call for removal of a lot of dirt and gums, a good thing in itself. Finally I would drain the whole system and flush it with one of the prepared solutions for this purpose. After refilling with new fluid I would bleed any remaining air from the lines. All mechanical parts of the individual brakes should be cleaned and lubricated. I'd pull out the master cylinder to make sure its wall isn't corroded or scored. Finally, I would reassemble the shoes and drums and polish off the job with careful testing and some minor adjustments."

Try It Some Time

I won't guarantee that this will work on your car but some time if rear seat passengers are complaining of too much air when you are rolling along in fair weather with the windows open try opening the cowl ventilator wide. This immediately sets up a counter draft which is effective in checking excessive "blow" inside the car. We were experimenting with this the other day and found that each time the driver closed the cowl ventilator there was so much air circulation in the car as to be uncomfortable. Open the ventilator and it seemed as if one of the windows had been closed.

They'll All Stall

Judging from my mail one of the pet worries of the motoring fraternity is engine stalling, but oddly enough the worry is about one's own engine and seldom about the other fellow's. As a result there has developed a type of collision due entirely to failure to assume, and to make preparations for the possibility, that the other fellow may not be able to proceed and get out of the way because of sudden under-the-hood lapse. Someone comes out of a driveway with what probably is a cold engine. He drives across your path, but you calmly figure that you need not slow down because by the time you reach the point of possible collision he'll be safely out of the way. But what if the engine of his car stalls?

For Your Guidance

Doing a motor job? If so, perhaps you'll be wondering if the pistons should be replaced with their slots facing the left or right, front or back. There is a simple rule about this. Just stand in front of the car, facing the motor. The pistons should be arranged so that their slots face the right hand side. They face the direction of the motor's thrust.

pay to speed up on the theory that subsequently you can save gas by getting a longer coast. The only time coasting pays is when you sense that the car's momentum is sufficient to keep it running without benefit of engine power.

A wrecked muffler is the usual penalty for the habit of switching off the ignition to "save" gas when going down easy grades. Unburned gas accumulates in the muffler and is apt to explode there when ignition is switched on again.

Tip on Clutch

Lack of alignment between engine and transmission accounts for several conditions that are indicated to an observing driver by certain noises, but there can be serious strain of the clutch plate without any of such telltale sounds. Better check, therefore, to see that alignment is correct if the car has seen considerable service, for if the clutch plate has to act like a universal joint the chances are that it will break off at its hub.

An Evening Thought

It is good discretion not to make too much of any man at the first; because one cannot hold out that proportion.—Bacon.

Just Folks

WISE AND FOOLISH ANGLERS

He knew too much of how and when

And all that lies 'twixt wrong and right.

Of wind and tide, and where they hide,

To fish when bass aren't apt to bite.

He'd read the books wise men have penned;

Was versed in piscatorial lore.

When not to go, he claimed to know,

And so he seldom left the shore.

"You'll have no luck," he'd often say.

"The water's much too high or low.

The wind's not right; they'll never bite.

If I were you I wouldn't go."

Yet many a time some fishing fool,

Whose knowledge of the signs was small,

At night would pass him by with bass

He never should have caught at all.

THE LIBRARY OF THE MIND

Solitude to some is a mild torture, but to others it is a boon and a joy.

It is in solitude that we get best acquainted with ourselves, and become most inspired by the wonders and mysteries of Nature.

It is in solitude that the library of the mind comes in for its greatest usefulness. Wherever you may be in solitude, there you can take from your mind some valuable volume—if you have previously built a library. Many there are who never store a single volume in their mind, so that they are the ones who are among the most miserable when solitude is offered them.

All the nature writers have built up libraries from all that they have seen and learned in nature. To such, solitude has always been a blessing. Knowledge is perched everywhere. You merely have to jot it down, and make it your own. This library of the mind, in which is stored all the rich accumulation of ideas and experiences over the years, is about the only indestructible thing we own. So long as we live, it lives.

You can be far from all human habitation, with not a scrap of reading matter around, and yet be in a position to entertain yourself from the many books and information long stored in that library of your mind. Memory has preserved for us the choicest selections from all our experiences.

Most of us know next to nothing of the simplest things that face us from day to day. A blade of grass, a common flower, a leaf from the commonest of trees, the stone that we carelessly kick from our path—what is the significance of each? The naturalist or scientist, however, could write a volume about any of these things and of their relationship to the rest of the world.

What a thrill it is to be favored with a companion from whose mind volume after volume can be drawn and expounded in simple language, to the profit of any of us who may be so fortunate as to have such a companion. And such knowledge and pleasure remain as permanent assets. How important it is to have accumulated a library of the mind!

If you're not certain the driver of the car immediately behind is paying attention to conditions just remember to press up and down on the brake pedal, a few times so that the stop-light signals go into action. He won't notice this at first but if you keep it up he'll tumble to the fact that something's cooking. When you have gained his attention then you can give him the signal for a full stop or turn or whatever it is you are about to do. He'll be ready for it by that time.

This isn't original with me. I got it from a bus driver who flashed his tail signals for half a block before turning. He wanted to be dead certain those behind would be on the alert.

Q. Do all valve faces have the same angle? S. L.

A. No. The usual face is 45 degrees for a beveled valve although some are 30 degrees.

Q. Every time the engine of my car is stopped there is strong smell of gasoline. Leakage never is serious enough to be detected on the garage floor, and I am sure that the leakage is around the carburetor because there never is any gas smell except when the engine has been running and then stopped. I fear I am losing a lot of fuel this

IF ANYONE still has doubts about tires built with man-made rubber, here's clear-cut performance proof: by the most conservative estimate, essential drivers have already rolled over 3 billion miles on B. F. Goodrich all-synthetic Silvertowns.

Letters have come in from drivers all over the country reporting complete satisfaction. Most of them have expressed confidence that all-synthetic Silvertowns will give at least as much mileage as pre-war tires.

The 80,000,000-mile road test was the first proof that B. F. Goodrich could build high-performance tires with synthetic rubber. The test started almost two years before Pearl Harbor when B. F. Goodrich sold tires in which more than half the rubber was synthetic. They were the first

SPANISH COUNT, MINISTER DIES

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 5 (AP)

—Gen. Francisco Pomez Jordana Sousa, 68, Spain's Minister of Foreign Affairs, died here Thursday of a heart attack.

He was the Count of Jordana, a diplomat and statesman with the prestige of years of service in the Spanish Army.

Jordana had established the Summer Foreign office in San Sebastian three days ago.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco appointed Jordana Minister of Foreign Affairs Sept. 3, 1942, at a time when the Germans still seemed to be on the offensive, the Russians were besieged at Stalingrad and the American landings in North Africa were in the unforeseen future.

He became a symbol of the "turn of the tide" before many realized the tide was about to turn. Jordana showed a desire for a policy of real neutrality as opposed to the "non-belligerency," thesis of his pro-Axis predecessor, Ramon Serrano Suner, Franco's brother-in-law.

The keystones of Jordana's policy were friendship with neighboring Portugal and all the Hispanic American states.

It was largely through Jordana that negotiations were carried out by the Allies which resulted last spring in Spain's agreeing to cut tungsten ore shipments to Germany, to expel Axis agents from Spain, Spanish Morocco and Tangier, to close the German consulate and other Axis agencies in Tangier, and to release interned Italian merchant ships.

The British and American oil embargo on Spain was lifted as a result.

U. S. WARMING UP TO FRANCO

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP)—Evidence that the United States may be seeking friendlier relations with Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spanish government was seen by diplomats here today in an unusual official statement on the death of Spanish Foreign Minister Jordana.

Speculation over the reason for issuing the statement, reminiscent of Prime Minister Churchill's "friendly words" for Spain last May, ran to two possibilities:

1. The American government has decided to seek generally a more friendly understanding with the ruling powers in Spain, thereby reversing its traditionally critical attitude toward Franco because of his long pro-Nazi policy.

2. More specifically, Washington wanted to make it apparent to Madrid that various friendly actions by Jordana had been deeply appreciated by American officials and they hoped that his successor would be equally cooperative.

The State Department simultaneously released two statements on Jordana's death late yesterday. One was the customary expression of condolence sent to the acting foreign minister by acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

The second was a press release saying that news of Jordana's death had been received "with great regret by officials of this government" and recounting occasions on which his personal actions had been favorable to American policy.

CUPID'S CASTAWAY

by MARTHA PREWITT

Chapter 1

The taxi starter noticed the girl because the big sou'wester looked incongruous in an inland city. A black slicker flapped wetly around her ankles. She stood alone at one end of the dark rain-swept platform—obviously off the 6:08 from the south because even under the great enveloping hat, he could see she was too deeply tanned for May this far north. She wasn't exactly pretty, but there was something attractive about the small-boned delicate features, and about the way she carried her slight shoulders leaning into the wind and rain as she came down the platform toward him. Twice she stopped and looked back uncertainly, as if hoping to find some welcoming figure following her.

The starter felt an unaccustomed tug of pity. She looked so forlorn and alone there under the hard bright light of the station.

"Folks not meet you, miss?"
She swung toward him and smiled. Her teeth were a white line against the brown, her eyes blue-purple. Maybe she was pretty.

"I'm afraid my father didn't telegraph," she said. "He gets excited before he goes on an expedition.
I'd better take a taxi, I suppose."
Her voice had a throb in it as if she were excited, too. Or scared.

The starter whistled to the line of waiting cabs, and a cloud of steam billowed out behind the first one.

"Guess comin' up into this cold rain's kinda tough, ain't it?"

Her mobile brows peaked in surprise. "Oh, no, I'm used to being wet. You see I live on a boat."

"Honest?" His tone quickened with interest. "Gee, I've wanted to do that all my life!"

"I have done it all my life." She shook her head. "It's not really exciting. Being in a city is!" The throb changed to a quiver now.
She was afraid.

"Got any baggage, miss?"
"I'd forgotten! I put them in the station, two bags—they've got 'Blue Dolphin' stamped on them."

The taxi slid to the curb and the girl got in. A moment later the starter was back, carrying a canvas dunnage bag in each hand, muttering, "Well, if she didn't mean bags."

"Stow them here, please." She indicated the space at her feet.
"You're very kind. Won't you let me—give you something?"

He closed the door gently. "No, lady. It was a pleasure."

The driver said boredly, "Where to?"

She consulted a limp piece of paper. "It looks like '19 Boxwood Avenue.' But it could be a '10.' It's blurred."

She sat forward on the seat, her fingers clenched tight in her lap.
She kept repeating, "It's going to be lovely. Like your dream. It is!
It is!" But she wasn't really sure any longer. Maybe the dream was going to shatter, like a bright soap bubble because she'd reached out to touch it.

She tried then to still her forebodings by repeating what Cappy always said when things went wrong. "Never been a storm yet that ain't blowed itself out."

She thought wistfully of Cappy's round, bronzed face with its straggled grizzled mustache. It was Cappy who'd taught her to holy-stone decks and splice rigging and make a monkey's fist for the end of a heaving line. It was Cappy who'd taught her to cook, and even, with triangular sail needle and palm, to sew. Her father had taken care of her education, but Cappy for most of her twenty years had mothered her. She couldn't dis-associate his little rotund figure, in frayed white ducks held up by a length of Manila, from the years spent drifting around the West Indies, lingering in small native ports, swimming, diving, fishing, sailing.

It was only this last year she'd developed curiosity about the outside world. As she caught glimpses of life aboard the big yachts they passed in the winter season, or on the smaller yachts they sometimes tied up near during their brief fitting-out stays in Miami or Nassau or Kingston, curiosity was tinged with wistfulness. She began to dream a fairy tale in which she was the princess, dressed in lovely sports clothes like the girl she saw in a speedboat in Cat Cay, or in fringe black lace like the beautiful blonde woman on the stern deck of a houseboat in Key West. Finally the dream obsessed her. Because of it, she twisted her courage to consider a visit to her uncle while her father went on an expedition in Mexico. Her Uncle Frank had often expressed a desire to see his dead sister's child. He'd even suggested, in a letter last winter, giving her a debut like his daughter Di had had several years ago. It was the thought of a debut that settled it. It'd sounded just like a book.

The taxi swerved in through high stone gateposts to a big house set back in gardens. "This must be it.
There wasn't no Number 10."

The girl leaned forward, her eyes wide and anxious, taking in the winged spread of the house. Lights in every window gave it the air of festivity her dream had expected.
Eagerness and panic fought for her heart. The small brown hands clasped tighter in her lap. She couldn't turn back now.

She went slowly, almost reverently, up the steps.

MOTHER OF 4 IS MURDERED

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP)—A mother of four was shot and killed Thursday at her home in the nearby mining village of Amend by a neighbor who then turned the gun on himself and took his own life.

Coroner L. R. Herrington reported.

Mrs. Rebecca Martin, 44-year-old widow, died almost instantly from four bullet wounds in the head and neck, Herrington said, after an argument with Michael Chiblick, 52, widower and father of five children.

Virginia Martin, 13, the woman's daughter who witnessed the slayings, told Herrington that Chiblick entered their home last night and demanded the title of an automobile owned by one of Mrs. Martin's sons now in the Army overseas.

The woman refused, Herrington said the daughter told him, and accused him of making statements threatening her life. Chiblick whipped out a .38-caliber revolver and pumped four shots into her. He then put the fifth bullet into his own head, Herrington said.

War-Frightened Refugees Arrive

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)— Nearly a thousand hesitant, yet eager, victims of the war in Europe arrived here today to remain for its duration in an emergency refugee shelter established by the War Relocation Authority at Fort Ontario.

Although they had been silenced
for so long by fear of the Nazis, each family among the 962 men, women and children had its own story of escape from oppression.
Some were marked for persecution by their religion, some by patriotism and some by chance, but their stories all had the same essential elements of terror, flight and final liberation.

Chosen on a basis of need from Italian camps, the majority of the refugees are Poles, Austrians, Yugo-slavs, Germans and Czechs. Nineteen nationalities in all, are represented.

They were brought to the United States outside regular immigration quotas in compliance with President Roosevelt's "free port plan" order of June 9. At the end of the war, they will be returned to their countries.

BULLETINS

Moscow, Aug. 5 (AP)—Prem- ier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the Polish government in exile prepared Friday to open discussions with the rival Polish Committee of National Liberation after conferring with Premier Joseph Stalin for 2 1/2 hours Thursday night.

London, Aug. 5 (AP)—The British government's program to clear London of women and children was stepped up Friday following the 14-hour record flying bomb blasting Thursday. All mothers with children of school age now may register for evacuation.

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP)— Backed by an Army promise to furnish some soldiers to help meet manpower requirements, manufacturers of heavy truck and bus tires turned Friday to the task of boosting output 30 per cent in August and September.

New York, Aug. 5 (AP)—Japanese broadcasts said Friday P-38 planes had attacked southern Manchuria and that is "proved that a raid by fighter planes from continental bases is possible."

SPANISH COUNT, MINISTER DIES

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 5 (AP)—Gen. Francisco Fomez Jordana Sousa, 68, Spain's Minister of Foreign Affairs, died here Thursday of a heart attack.

He was the Count of Jordana, a diplomat and statesman with the prestige of years of service in the Spanish Army.

Jordana had established the Summer Foreign office in San Sebastian three days ago.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco appointed Jordana Minister of Foreign Affairs Sept. 3, 1942, at a time when the Germans still seemed to be on the offensive, the Russians were besieged at Stalingrad and the American landings in North Africa were in the unforeseen future.

He became a symbol of the "turn of the tide" before many realized the tide was about to turn. Jordana showed a desire for a policy of real neutrality as opposed to the "non-belligerency," thesis of his pro-Axis predecessor, Ramon Serrano Suner, Franco's brother-in-law.

The keystones of Jordana's policy were friendship with neighboring Portugal and all the Hispanic American states.

It was largely through Jordana that negotiations were carried out by the Allies which resulted last spring in Spain's agreeing to cut tungsten ore shipments to Germany, to expel Axis agents from Spain, Spanish Morocco and Tangier, to close the German consulate and other Axis agencies in Tangier, and to release interned Italian merchant ships.

The British and American oil embargo on Spain was lifted as a result.

U. S. WARMING UP TO FRANCO

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP)—Evi- dence that the United States may be seeking friendlier relations with Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spanish government was seen by diplomats here today in an unusual official statement on the death of Spanish Foreign Minister Jordana.

Speculation over the reason for issuing the statement, reminiscent of Prime Minister Churchill's "friendly words" for Spain last May, ran to two possibilities:

1. The American government has decided to seek generally a more friendly understanding with the ruling powers in Spain, thereby reversing its traditionally critical attitude toward Franco because of his long pro-Nazi policy.

2. More specifically, Washington wanted to make it apparent to Madrid that various friendly actions by Jordana had been deeply appreciated by American officials and they hoped that his successor would be equally cooperative.

The State Department simultaneously released two statements on Jordana's death late yesterday. One was the customary expression of condolence sent to the acting foreign minister by acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

The second was a press release saying that news of Jordana's death had been received "with great regret by officials of this government" and recounting occasions on which his personal actions had been favorable to American policy.

CUPID'S CASTAWAY

Chapter 1

The taxi starter noticed the girl because the big sou'wester looked incongruous in an inland city. A black slicker flapped wetly around her ankles. She stood alone at one end of the dark rain-swept platform—obviously off the 6:08 from the south because even under the great enveloping hat, he could see she was too deeply tanned for May this far north. She wasn't exactly pretty, but there was something attractive about the small-boned delicate features, and about the way she carried her slight shoulders leaning into the wind and rain as she came down the platform toward him. Twice she stopped and looked back uncertainly, as if hoping to find some welcoming figure following her.

The starter felt an unaccustomed tug of pity. She looked so forlorn and alone there under the hard bright light of the station. "Folks not meet you, miss?" She swung toward him and smiled. Her teeth were a white line against the brown, her eyes blue-purple. Maybe she was pretty. "I'm afraid my father didn't telegraph," she said. "He gets excited before he goes on an expedition. I'd better take a taxi, I suppose." Her voice had a throb in it as if she were excited, too. Or scared.

The starter whistled to the line of waiting cabs, and a cloud of steam billowed out behind the first one. "Guess comin' up into this cold rain's kinda tough, ain't it?" Her mobile brows peaked in surprise. "Oh, no, I'm used to being wet. You see I live on a boat." "Honest?" His tone quickened with interest. "Gee, I've wanted to do that all my life!"

"I have done it all my life." She shook her head. "It's not really exciting. Being in a city is!" The throb changed to a quiver now. She was afraid.

"Got any baggage, miss?"

"I'd forgotten! I put them in the station, two bags—they've got 'Blue Dolphin' stamped on them."

The taxi slid to the curb and the girl got in. A moment later the starter was back, carrying a canvas dunnage bag in each hand, muttering, "Well, if she didn't mean bags."

"Stow them here, please." She indicated the space at her feet. "You're very kind. Won't you let me—give you something?"

He closed the door gently. "No, lady. It was a pleasure."

The driver said boredly, "Where to?"

She consulted a limp piece of paper. "It looks like '19 Boxwood Avenue.' But it could be a '10.' It's blurred."

She sat forward on the seat, her fingers clenched tight in her lap. She kept repeating, "It's going to be lovely. Like your dream. It is! It is!" But she wasn't really sure any longer. Maybe the dream was going to shatter, like a bright soap bubble because she'd reached out to touch it.

She tried then to still her forebodings by repeating what Cappy always said when things went wrong. "Never been a storm yet that ain't blown itself out."

She thought wistfully of Cappy's round, bronzed face with its straggling grizzled mustache. It was Cappy who'd taught her to holy-stone decks and splice rigging and make a monkey's fist for the end of a heaving line. It was Cappy who'd taught her to cook, and even, with triangular sail needle and palm, to sew. Her father had taken care of her education, but Cappy for most of her twenty years had mothered her. She couldn't disassociate his little rotund figure, in frayed white ducks held up by a length of Manila, from the years spent drifting around the West Indies, lingering in small native ports, swimming, diving, fishing, sailing.

It was only this last year she'd developed curiosity about the outside world. As she caught glimpses of life aboard the big yachts they passed in the winter season, or on the smaller yachts they sometimes tied up near during their brief fitting-out stays in Miami or Nassau or Kingston, curiosity was tinged with wishfulness. She began to dream a fairy tale in which she was the princess, dressed in lovely sports clothes like the girl she saw in a speedboat in Cat Cay, or in fragile black lace like the beautiful blonde woman on the stern deck of a houseboat in Key West. Finally the dream obsessed her. Because of it, she twisted her courage to consider a visit to her uncle while her father went on an expedition in Mexico. Her Uncle Frank had often expressed a desire to see his dead sister's child. He'd even suggested, in a letter last winter, giving her a debut like his daughter Di had had several years ago. It was the thought of a debut that settled it. It'd sounded just like a book.

The taxi swerved in through high stone gateposts to a big house set back in gardens. "This must be it. There wasn't no Number 10."

The girl leaned forward, her eyes wide and anxious, taking in the winged spread of the house. Lights in every window gave it the air of festivity her dream had expected. Eagerness and panic fought for her heart. The small brown hands clasped tighter in her lap. She couldn't turn back now.

She went slowly, almost reverently, up the steps.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)— Charles M. Hay, executive director of the War Manpower Commission says 300,000 workers are needed in undermanned defense industries to speed the day of victory before Germany can improve her rocket bombs.

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP)— draft boards have been directed to review the cases of all registrants 18 through 25 who prior to June 1 were found unfit for military service because of educational or mental deficiencies.

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP)— War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes Friday ordered the fixing of employment ceilings on non-essential and less essential factories to free 200,000 workers for lagging war production programs.

MOTHER OF 4 IS MURDERED

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP)— A mother of four was shot and killed Thursday at her home in the nearby mining village of Amend by a neighbor who then turned the gun on himself and took his own life. Coroner L. R. Herrington reported.

Mrs. Rebecca Martin, 44-year-old widow, died almost instantly from four bullet wounds in the head and neck. Herrington said, after an argument with Michael Chibilek, 52, widower and father of five children.

Virginia Martin, 13, the woman's daughter who witnessed the slayings, told Herrington that Chibilek entered their home last night and demanded the title of an automobile owned by one of Mrs. Martin's sons now in the Army overseas. The woman refused, Herrington said the daughter told him, and accused him of making statements threatening her life. Chibilek whipped out a .38-caliber revolver and pumped four shots into her. He then put the fifth bullet into his own head, Herrington said.

War - Frightened Refugees Arrive

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)— Nearly a thousand hesitant, yet eager, victims of the war in Europe arrived here today to remain for its duration in an emergency refugee shelter established by the War Relocation Authority at Fort Ontario.

Although they had been silenced for so long by fear of the Nazis, each family among the 982 men, women and children had its own story of escape from oppression. Some were marked for persecution by their religion, some by patriotism and some by chance, but their stories all had the same essential elements of terror, flight and final liberation.

Chosen on a basis of need from Italian camps, the majority of the refugees are Poles, Austrians, Yugoslavs, Germans and Czechs. Nineteen nationalities in all are represented.

They were brought to the United States outside regular immigration quotas in compliance with President Roosevelt's "free port plan" order of June 9. At the end of the war, they will be returned to their countries.

BURNS TO DEATH

Meadville, Pa., Aug. 5 (AP)— Gaylord Bruce Smith, 9, of Guys Mills, Crawford county, burned to death when fuel oil used to kindle a bonfire spilled on his clothing and was ignited Wednesday.

PAY OFF
Kansas City (AP)—Children of Kansas City's playgrounds more than doubled their $50,000 promised band sales during the fifth war loan. Their reward: A Missouri river excursion aboard a landing craft, tank, on her maiden cruise.

SEE HIMSELF
Fort McPherson, Ga.—Michele Pasquino, wounded Italian prisoner of war, with others was viewing a movie being shown at the post hospital. Suddenly Pasquino let out a yell. He had seen himself being taken captive in the battle of Tunisia by an English unit.

Give brass door knockers a coat of wax and there will be less polishing needed as the wax forms a protective coat which keeps off tarnish for some time.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
The love story of GI Joe—his temptations, laughter, dreams and courage—is the enthralling theme of Maxwell Anderson's "The Eve of St. Mark," the 20th Century-Fox screen version of the celebrated Broadway hit play which opens Monday at the Majestic theater.

The picture, acclaimed as the greatest emotional experience to come out of this war, features Anne Baxter, William Eythe and Michael O'Shea, with Vincent Price, Ruth Nelson, Ray Collins, Stanley Prager, Henry Morgan, Robert Bailey, Joann Dolan, Toni Fawcett, George Mathews, John Archer, Murray Alper and Dickie Moore.

WEDNESDAY
It needn't be Spring for a young man's fancy to turn to love when the young man is Henry Aldrich and he's out to do some tall match-making.

In "Henry Aldrich Plays Cupid," which plays Wednesday at the Majestic theater, Jimmy Lydon, the Henry of the Aldrich comedies, with the help of Diana Lynn and Charley (Dizzy) Smith, gets himself into one scrape after another. It all begins when he tries marrying off Vaughan Glaser, his ancient enemy in the hope that the worthy gentleman's disposition will improve toward Jimmy.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY

Hal Luby's 10th inning homer gave Bill Voiselle and the New York Giants a 4-3 nod over the Phillies' Ken Raffensberger. Freddy Fitzsimmons' Phils finished the game under protest as they absorbed their 10th straight loss. Chicago held fourth place by beating Pittsburgh 4-3 on Bill Nicholson's 24th homer, coming with a man on in the ninth as Paul Derringer took the win from Max Butcher. It was the 10th straight Chicago triumph.

Machmen Lose 1-0

Connie Mack's 50th anniversary as a manager was spoiled by the Yankees, who took a 1-0 game behind Hank Borowy before a night turnout of 29,166. Bobo Newsom was the tough-lost loser.

Chicago's White Sox returned to the first division by trimming Cleveland's Mel Harder, 5-3 on some neat relief work by Jake Wade. Johnny Niggeling tossed Washington a 7-5 edge over Boston in the first of two but Emmet O'Neil blanked the Sens in the finale, 4-0. Detroit and St. Louis were not scheduled.

JACK DEFEATS B. MONTGOMERY

New York, Aug. 5 (AP)—Pvt. Beau Jack won the decision, Pvt. Bob Montgomery didn't lose his lightweight title; $35,894.90 in war bonds were sold, and the 15,822 customers, including several hundred wounded veterans saw a whale of a fight show.

The gate was the largest ever piled up for a fight show. The only way to get in was to purchase a bond with maturity value of from $25 to $100.00. Hundreds of persons bought bonds, and left their tickets at the box office to be distributed to service men, or sent them to hospitals or service centers.

All the fighters, promoters, managers, referees, judges and others connected with the show donated their services, and the Gillette razor company paid all the other expenses.

Beau Jack, the ex-bootblack from Augusta, Ga., who lost the title to Montgomery, won it back from him and then lost it to him again, was really a fighter man as he punched out his decision in the non-title scrap. The referee called it even, but both judges favored the bounding Beau by a wide margin.

Allentown Downs Wilmington Twice

(By The Associated Press)
Allentown's Red Birds climbed to second place in the interstate league last night by taking both ends of a double header from the league leading Wilmington Blue Rocks, 6-4 and 2-1.

The Trenton Packers continued their winning ways by defeating the Hagerstown Owls, 11-4. Petty, winning pitcher, helped the victory along by getting three of Trenton's 14 hits. Fourteen Owls were left stranded on the bases.

Four errors in the first inning gave Lancaster a two run start in a 7-3 victory decision over York. Scoring two more in the fourth, Lancaster added another three runs in the fifth with two York errors again helping out. Clark Henry hit a homer in the sixth.

BEN CHAPMAN BEATS BRAVES FOR DODGERS

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ben Chapman's stormy baseball career had a new slant today as the newest Brooklyn Dodger saw his name posted in the National League books as a pitcher with a 1,000 winning percentage and a 500 batting average.

Temperamental Ben from Nashville led the American league in base stealing four times, lifting 61 in 1931 and played shortstop, third base, second base and outfield in his advance from Asheville to the New York Yankees, Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

It remained for the Piedmont league to bring out Chappie's talents as a side-arm hurler with a good "downer" as he went to the mound for his Richmond Colts when a string of double headers disrupted his pitching staff. Chapman's record for Richmond inspired major league interests, despite his penchant for jousting with the umpires. Deacon Branch Rickey lured him away from Dixie with a cash payment and Rookie Pitcher Clyde King.

Stars In Opener

Chapman wasted little time reporting to the Dodgers. He went to the hill to stop Boston, 9-4, last night in full view of 13,065 of the flashiest curious. Firey Ben limited the Braves to eight safe blows, and left no room for doubt by bashing a double and single, driving in three runs and scoring three more to warm the Rickey heart and doom Al Javery.

While Chapman was taking the bows, Bucky Walters climbed back on the win wagon, stopping St. Louis for the fifth straight time to hang up his 16th victory after four futile efforts. Cincinnati's margin was 5-3, with Al Jurisich, the first of four St. Louis hurlers, getting the loss.

Hal Luby's 10th inning homer gave Bill Voiselle and the New York Giants a 4-3 nod over the Phillies' Ken Raffensberger. Freddy Fitzsimmons' Phils finished the game under protest as they absorbed their 10th straight loss. Chicago held fourth place by beating Pittsburgh 4-3 on Bill Nicholson's 24th homer, coming with a man on in the ninth as Paul Derringer took the win from Max Butcher. Foul Ball Breaks Lighting System

(By The Associated Press)
Hartford's Laurels were only three and a half games ahead of Albany's Senators today in their race towards the Eastern league pennant but an accidental blackout accounted for part of their woe.

The Laurels were enjoying a 3 to 2 margin over Elmira's Pioneers at the start of the last half of the third inning last night when a foul ball smashed an insulator on a light pole, plunging left field into darkness. League Prexy Tommy Richardson will decide whether the game must be replayed or started from the point of interruption.

Meanwhile, the Senators annexed two more games as they trounced Williamsport's Sports 10 to 6 and 17 to 6 to run their victory string to 14. Ulica defeated Wilkes-Barre's Barons 5 to 4 in an 10-inning fracas that moved the Blue Sox into third place ahead of Williamsport. Binghamton's Grays downed Scranton's Red Sox 4 to 2.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Pinch Hitting for Hugh Fullerton)
New York, Aug. 5 (AP)—Bits of banter:

It isn't surprising that the Chicago Cubs are in fourth place in the National loop—they hit bottom so hard at the start that they just naturally bounced that far. . . . The manpower shortage in football is getting tougher—Notre Dame has a Kelly and a Sullivan on its squad of "Fightin' Irish." . . . Ducks, unlimited, reports another bumper crop this year, with an increase of 25,000,000 over last year—and the hunters have no shotgun shells. . . . Mike Gonzales, Cardinal coach, has added another colorful bit of language and logic to go with his famous "good field-no hit" classic—during a short talk in St. Louis the colorful Cuban orated "this is a fine town. I hope I live long enough to spend the rest of my life here!"

Babe Ruth's lifetime major league salary, exclusive of testimonials and outside income, totaled more than $896,000.

No. 1—What player won a major league batting championship, and did not hit a home run?

No. 2—Only one major league team since 1900 has scored in all nine innings of a game. Name the team.

TODAY'S JEST STAR

Mushky Jackson, Broadway: (Discussing one of his fighters) "Why, punches bounce off his chin just like a duck takes to water."

NOTES TO YOU

Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt's 1937 All-America center, is a major commanding a flight squadron in England. . . . 18-year-old Ned Garver, pitcher with the Newark club of the Class D Ohio State league, has won 18 and lost 3, boasts a .438 batting average, hurled a no-hitter, and is in his first year of baseball (scouts note—he belongs to the Browns, via Toledo). . . . Frank Winchell, the "perfect host" and manager of the Jacksonville (Fla) tourist and convention bureau, reports after a canvass of big league managers that the major league clubs will return to their Florida training bases as soon as permitted. . . . The Mutual network and the Gillette Safety Razor company signed an agreement yesterday for the year-round broadcast of fights every Friday night starting September 8—the former agreement was for only 26 fight broadcasts per year. . . . "Terrible Ted" Pavelic, Detroit Lions tackle, has signed to fight for the world's heavyweight championship against the immortal John L. Sullivan—in the motion picture of the same name.

BASEBALL ANSWERS

No. 1—Zack Wheat, Brooklyn, 1918, batted .335—no homers.

No. 2—The New York Giants vs. Philadelphia, June 1, 1923; the score—22 to 8.

BASEBALL FANS PRESENT $5,000 TO CONNIE MACK

By TED MEIER
Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)—There are many tender memories in the life of Cornelius McGillicuddy—Connie Mack to you—but possibly the most poignant was last night's celebration at Shibe park in honor of his 50th anniversary as a big league baseball manager.

A crowd of 29,166, including many of the game's top figures and famous players of yesterday, crowded into the park. To get there they disregarded the city's transit strike that had stopped all subways, street cars and buses. Thousands came in automobiles, but the majority walked.

President Roosevelt sent a message of congratulations declaring "may your scoreboard continue to wave."

Receives $5,000 Check

Since he first took the helm of a big league club—at Pittsburgh on August 4, 1894—baseball's "grand old gentleman" has won nine American league pennants with his Athletics and five world titles.

Introduced from home plate by Lt. Governor John C. Bell of Pennsylvania, "Mr. Baseball" was presented a gold box with a check for $5,000 as a "token of admiration and affection from the sports fans of America."

The big moment of the celebration, put on in a world series atmosphere, was the presentation of Connie's living all-time best players. The fans cheered and cheered as, in turn, Connie presented these former stars: George Sisler, first baseman of the St. Louis Browns; Eddie Collins, second baseman of the Athletics; Frank "Home Run" Baker, third baseman of the Athletics; Honus Wagner, shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Lt. Bill Dickey, catcher of the New York Yankees; Walter Johnson, right handed pitcher for Washington; Lefty Grove, southpaw pitcher for the Athletics; Tris Speaker, outfielder for the Cleveland Indians, and Babe Ruth, "the greatest hitter of all time." Yankee outfielder, Catcher Mickey Cochrane, formerly with the A's and Detroit, and Outfielder Ty Cobb were unable to be present.

The only sour note was the 1-0 defeat the Yankees inflicted on the A's after the festivities were over. Bobo Newsome and Hank Borowy engaged in a scoreless duel until the ninth when George Stinewiss' safe bunt, a sacrifice, an infield single and an infield out produced the only run.

It needn't be Spring for a young man's fancy to turn to love when the young man is Henry Aldrich and he's out to do some tall match-making.

In "Henry Aldrich Plays Cupid," which plays Wednesday at the Majestic theater, Jimmy Lydon, the Henry of the Aldrich comedies, with the help of Diana Lynn and Charley (Dizzy) Smith, gets himself into one scrape after another. It all begins when he tries marrying off Vaughan Glaser, his ancient enemy in the hope that the worthy gentleman's disposition will improve—toward Jimmy.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY

Irene Dunne and Alan Marshal

give fine portrayals in their latest film, "The White Cliffs of Dover."

Fans who saw Irene Dunne in "A Guy Named Joe" and hailed her performance as one of the outstanding of her career have another treat coming when they see her in M-G-M's "The White Cliffs of Dover," the engrossing motion picture opening Thursday, at the Majestic theater.

In her role, Miss Dunne is seen as the daughter of an American newspaper publisher who goes to England on a vacation and stays there to find romance, love and a husband in Alan Marshal. She also makes England her home and rears a child, who is Roddy McDowall as a youth and Peter Lawford as a grown man.

First her husband is called to arms, during World War I, and then her son answers a similar call in World War II.

BEN CHAPMAN BEATS BRAVES FOR DODGERS

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ben Chapman's stormy baseball career had a new slant today as the newest Brooklyn Dodger saw his name posted in the National League books as a pitcher with a 1,000 winning percentage and a .500 batting average.

Temperamental Ben from Nashville led the American league in base stealing four times, lifting 61 in 1931 and played shortstop, third base, second base and outfield in his advance from Asheville to the New York Yankees, Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

It remained for the Piedmont league to bring out Chappie's talents as a side-arm hurler with a good "downer" as he went to the mound for his Richmond Colts when a string of double headers disrupted his pitching staff. Chapman's record for Richmond inspired major league interests, despite his penchant for jousting with the umpires. Deacon Branch Rickey lured him away from Dixie with a cash payment and Rookie Pitcher Clyde King.

Chapman wasted little time reporting to the Dodgers. He went to the hill to stop Boston, 9-4, last night in full view of 13,065 of the flatbush curious. Firey Ben limited the Braves to eight safe blows, and left no room for doubt by bashing a double and single, driving in three runs and scoring three more to warm the Rickey heart and doom Al Javery.

While Chapman was taking the bows, Bucky Walters climbed back on the win wagon, stopping St. Louis for the fifth straight time to hang up his 16th victory after four futile efforts. Cincinnati's margin was 5-3, with Al Jurisich, the first of four St. Louis hurlers, getting the loss.

Hal Luby's 10th inning homer gave Bill Voiselle and the New York Giants a 4-3 nod over the Phillies' Ken Raffensberger. Freddy Fitzsimmons' Phils finished the game under protest as they absorbed their 10th straight loss. Chicago held fourth place by beating Pittsburgh 4-3 on Bill Nicholson's 24th homer, coming with a man on in the ninth as Paul Derringer took the win from Max Butcher. It was the 10th straight Chicago triumph.

Machmen Lose 1-0
Connie Mack's 50th anniversary as a manager was spoiled by the Yankees, who took a 1-0 game behind Hank Borowy before a night turnout of 29,166. Bobo Newsom was the tough-luck loser.

Chicago's White Sox returned to the first division by trimming Cleveland's Mel Harder, 5-3 on some neat relief work by Jake Wade. Johnny Niggeling tossed Washington a 7-5 edge over Boston in the first of two but Emmet O'Neill blanked the Sens in the finale, 4-0. Detroit and St. Louis were not scheduled.

JACK DEFEATS B. MONTGOMERY

New York, Aug. 5 (AP)—Pvt. Beau Jack won the decision, Pvt. Bob Montgomery didn't lose his lightweight title; $35,884,900 in war bonds were sold, and the 15,822 customers, including several hundred wounded veterans saw a whale of a fight show.

The gate was the largest ever piled up for a fight show. The only way to get in was to purchase a bond with maturity value of from $25 to $100,000. Hundreds of persons bought bonds, and left their tickets at the box office to be distributed to service men, or sent them to hospitals or service centers.

All the fighters, promoters, managers, referees, judges and others connected with the show donated their services, and the Gillette razor company paid all the other expenses.

Beau Jack, the ex-bootblack from Augusta, Ga., who lost the title to Montgomery, won it back from him and then lost it to him again, was really a fighter man as he punched out his decision in the non-title scrap. The referee called it even, but both judges favored the bounding Beau by a wide margin.

Allentown Downs Wilmington Twice

(By The Associated Press)
Allentown's Red Birds climbed into second place in the interstate league last night by taking both ends of a double header from the league leading Wilmington Blue Rocks, 6-4 and 2-1.

The Trenton Packers continued their winning ways by defeating the Hagerstown Owls, 11-4. Petty, winning pitcher, helped the victory along by getting three of Trenton's 14 hits. Fourteen Owls were left stranded on the bases.

Four errors in the first inning gave Lancaster a two run start in a 7-3 victory decision over York. Scoring two more in the fourth, Lancaster added another three runs in the fifth with two York errors again helping out. Clark Henry hit a homer in the sixth.

Foul Ball Breaks Lighting System

(By The Associated Press)
Hartford's Laurels were only three and a half games ahead of Albany's Senators today in their race towards the Eastern league pennant but an accidental blackout accounted for part of their woe.

The Laurels were enjoying a 3 to 2 margin over Elmira's Pioneers at the start of the last half of the third inning last night when a foul ball smashed an insulator on a light pole, plunging left field into darkness. League Prexy Tommy Richardson will decide whether the game must be replayed or started from the point of interruption.

Meanwhile, the Senators annexed two more games as they trounced Williamsport's Sports 10 to 6 and 17 to 6 to run their victory string to 14. Utica defeated Wilkes-Barre's Barons 5 to 4 in an 10-inning fracas that moved the Blue Sox into third place ahead of Williamsport. Binghamton's Grays downed Scranton's Red Sox 4 to 2.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Pinch Hitting for Hugh Fullerton)
New York, Aug. 5 (AP)—Bits of banter:

It isn't surprising that the Chicago Cubs are in fourth place in the National loop—they hit bottom so hard at the start that they just naturally bounced that far.

The manpower shortage in football is getting tougher—Notre Dame has a Kelly and a Sullavan on its squad of "Fighin' Irish." . . . Ducks, unlimited, reports another bumper crop this year, with an increase of 25,000,000 over last year—and the hunters have no shotgun shells. . . . Mike Gonzales, Cardinal coach, has added another colorful bit of language and logic to go with his famous "good field-no hit" classic—during a short talk in St. Louis the colorful Cuban orated "this is a fine town. I hope I live long enough to spend the rest of my life here!" . . . Babe Ruth's lifetime major league salary, exclusive of testimonials and outside income, totaled more than $896,000.

NOTES TO YOU

Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt's 1937 All-America center, is a major commanding a flight squadron in England. . . . 18-year-old Ned Garver, pitcher with the Newark club of the Class D Ohio State league, has won 18 and lost 3, boasts a .438 batting average, hurled a no-hitter, and is in his first year of baseball (scouts note—he belongs to the Browns, via Toledo). . . . Frank Winchell, the "perfect host" and manager of the Jacksonville (Fla) tourist and convention bureau, reports after a canvass of big league managers that the major league clubs will return to their Florida training bases as soon as permitted. . . . The Mutual network and the Gillette Safety Razor company signed an agreement yesterday for the year-round broadcast of fights every Friday night starting September 8—the former agreement was for only 26 fight broadcasts per year. . . . "Terrible Ted" Pavell, Detroit Lions tackle, has signed to fight for the world's heavyweight championship against the immortal John L. Sullivan—in the motion picture of the same name.

BASEBALL FANS PRESENT $5,000 TO CONNIE MACK

By TED MEIER
Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP)—There are many tender memories in the life of Cornelius McGillicuddy—Connie Mack to you—but possibly the most poignant was last night's celebration at Shibe park in honor of his 50th anniversary as a big league baseball manager.

A crowd of 29,166, including many of the game's top figures and famous players of yesteryear, crowded into the park. To get there they disregarded the city's transit strike that had stopped all subways, street cars and buses. Thousands came in automobiles, but the majority walked.

President Roosevelt sent a message of congratulations declaring "may your scoreboard continue to wave."

Receives $5,000 Check

Since he first took the helm of a big league club—at Pittsburgh on August 4, 1894—baseball's "grand old gentleman" has won nine American league pennants with his Athletics and five world titles.

Introduced from home plate by Lt. Governor John C. Bell of Pennsylvania, "Mr. Baseball" was presented a gold box with a check for $5,000 as a "token of admiration and affection from the sports fans of America."

The big moment of the celebration, put on in a world series atmosphere, was the presentation of Connie's living all-time best players. The fans cheered and cheered as, in turn, Connie presented these former stars: George Sisler, first baseman of the St. Louis Browns; Eddie Collins, second baseman of the Athletics; Frank "Home Run" Baker, third baseman of the Athletics; Honus Wagner, shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Lt. Bill Dickey, catcher of the New York Yankees; Walter Johnson, right handed pitcher for Washington; Lefty Grove, southpaw pitcher for the Athletics; Tris Speaker, outfielder for the Cleveland Indians, and Babe Ruth "the greatest hitter of all time," Yankee outfielder. Catcher Mickey Cochrane, formerly with the A's and Detroit, and Outfielder Ty Cobb were unable to be present.

The only sour note was the 1-0 defeat the Yankees inflicted on the A's after the festivities were over. Bobo Newsome and Hank Borowy engaged in a scoreless duel until the ninth when George Stinweis's safe bunt, a sacrifice, an infield single and an infield out produced the only run.
